Board agrees to look again at early-out policy

Confronted with a petition signed by nearly 500 district residents, the SAD #44 Board of Directors voted Monday night to reconsider once again the Wednesday early-release policy for elementary school pupils.

The board will take up the matter at its next meeting, which is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Monday, Oct. 24, at the Andover Elementary School.

Carroll Murphy and Jane Rolfe, of Bethel, presented the petition to the board. "We haven't gone door-to-door yet," Mr. Murphy said. "We got nearly 500 signatures just in grocery stores and gas stations. Given the psychology of door-to-door canvassing, I'm sure we could easily double the names here."

"Listen to our voices," he urged the board.

Mr. Murphy stressed that the petition was intended to stop the early release policy, not to take away from teachers' professional development time.

Earlier in the meeting, during a presentation on the Breadloaf writing project, project coordinator Will Graham had used a baseball analogy to argue that proficiency comes only with practice—be it at bat or at writing.

Gayle Russell, of Woodstock, deftly turned the analogy against the early-release policy. "We've just heard a presentation saying that kids need the practice, that they need to be up at bat," she said, arguing that the early release on Wednesday reduced this critical time.

Tony Hebert, of Bethel, agreed. "My son is in the 3rd grade, and he told me that he doesn't get enough school time on Wednesday," Mr. Hebert told the board.

The issue of child care during the release time also came up again. "The babysitting situation is really critical," said Sandy Pond, of Bethel. "That's an awful lot of time to have the children home alone."

Superintendent Dewane Craig noted, however, that during the first week of the program fewer than 30 students had turned up for the "alternative activities" set

"Dangerous" driveways on Alcohol Mary Road reduced in final plan

"I still feel the planning board could have jerked the developer's chain a little harder," said Nancy Dewing, of Alcohol Mary Road in Greenwood, following the Greenwood Planning Board's approval of final plans for the Rolling Hills Subdivision at the intersection of Alcohol Mary and Richardson Hollow roads.

The plan approved by the board represents a compromise between the developers—who initially proposed eight lots, with as many as five separate driveways on Alcohol Mary Road—and residents of the road—who contend that any driveways increase the danger on an already hazardous road.

The plan approved unanimously by the board Monday reduces the number of lots to seven and the number of driveways on Alcohol Mary Road to one. The one remaining driveway will serve three lots; the four other lots in the 60-acre parcel will enter onto Richardson Hollow Road.

An interim plan, heatedly debated at a public hearing last month, had called for two driveways on the narrow, hilly road.

The final plan retains the uppermost of these, but eliminates the lower one, which was to be located on a curve at the bottom of a steep hill. The lot to have been served by that driveway has now been combined with a larger lot on Richardson Hollow Road.

While not entirely satisfied with the final plan, residents of the road expressed some satisfaction with the changes they were able to effect.

"All along there had been a sense of hopelessness about this," said Nancy Dewing, "a feeling of resignation. But it's better to have been able to get what we have than to have gone with the original plan."

Referring to the whole affair as "a tempest in a teapot," Planning Board Member Gloria Redman praised the developers—Ellis Realty Trust, of Framingham, Mass.—for their willingness to compromise. "We've worked with George Courbron [an agent for the developers] before," she said, "and he's always gone out of his way to take the concerns of the town into consideration."

JOHN ELIOT, CMP's local supervisor, displays the work of a beaver that put the bite on Bethel area power Monday morning. The beaver, building a home on the Alder River, chewed through the poplar, probably not realizing it would fall on a high voltage transmission line and darken homes from West Paris to Gilead. When the CMP crews located the accident, the beaver had already scurried off, leaving a nice memento of his (or her) handiwork.

Greenwood votes to regulate tire dumps and buy beach

At a special town meeting Tuesday evening, Greenwood residents voted overwhelmingly to adopt an ordinance regulating waste oil and used tire storage/disposal facilities in the town.

And the approximately 75 voters at the meeting unanimously endorsed the purchase of shoreline property on South Pond for a town beach; and they approved, again unanimously, spending an additional $20,000 to complete renovations to the former Locke Mills School, which is now the Greenwood Municipal Building.

The town currently faces the prospect of a tire recycling and storage facility being located off the Rabbit Road. Selectwoman Marie Bartlett told the meeting that the ordinance was necessary if the town is to have any say in reviewing the project and enforcing regulations for its operation.

"The bottom line," she said, "is will DEP have all the control over [the facility] or will the town and the planning board have control—that's it."

Fergus Lea, of the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments, seconded Mrs. Bartlett's analysis: "DEP is understaffed and unable to do what they're mandated by law to do," he said, noting that there had been numerous complaints about the illegal tire dump in South Paris (which eventually caught fire), but the DEP had proven incapable of responding effectively.

"The ordinance basically gives the town review and enforcement authority," he said.

The requirements in the ordinance adopted Tuesday are very similar to those used by the DEP. "It's not going to cost the developer a lot more money," Mr. Lea said, "and the review process should run concurrently with the DEP review."

None of the Greenwood residents at the meeting spoke against the ordinance, but Billy Stowell, an engineer for the developers (Peter and Mike Gordon, of Bethel), argued that its geotechnical and engineering controls were too strict.

Mr. Stowell said that if the developers had to spend money to fight the regulations in court they would attempt to recover the legal costs from the town.

He also termed much of the opposition to the facility "truck-stop gossip."

Mrs. Bartlett countered that the ordinance had been reviewed by AVCOG (which helped to develop it), by the town's lawyer and by the Maine Municipal Association—all of whom found it to be legal.

If individual sections of the ordinance prove to be too strict, she said, they can always be modified by the town at a later date.

While the special town meeting had been called to deal with the ordinance,

Beaver blacks out Bethel

A beaver cutting trees for a beaver dam on the Alder River felled a poplar that landed on a CMP transmission line. The resulting blackout cut off power from West Paris to Gilead Monday morning, from 5:10 to 9:05. A CMP spokeswoman said a total of 1,000 homes and businesses were affected.

In this electricity-dependent society, some people slept through their normal alarm wake-up times, and many people scurried around trying to find a cup of coffee. Since it was a holiday (Columbus Day), few schools or businesses were affected.

Local CMP supervisor John Eliot said the downed poplar broke the transmission line a quarter-mile south of where the Rabbit Road crosses the railroad tracks in Bethel. Mr. Eliot, who brought a portion of the offending poplar into The Citizen office, said there was no sign of the culprit beaver when he got to the scene. He said, however, the beaver dam is quite evident.

Diesel leak at Woodstock garage may prove costly

A leaking diesel fuel tank has contaminated the soil and ground water near the Woodstock Garage, and town and Department of Environmental Protection officials are as yet uncertain just how big a problem they have on their hands.

"We don't know the scale of the problem yet," said First Selectman George Hooper, "but we know we're probably going to have to come up with a lot of money."

According to Town Manager Vern Maxfield, Road Foreman Percy Monk discovered the problem recently when he

IT'S THAT TIME OF YEAR—These Canada geese were spotted over Bethel last week, winking their way south. The sight—and the loud honking—of the geese are a sure reminder that winter is rapidly approaching.

Albany welfare still high—DHS admits past laxity, denies anyone did wrong

Per-capita general assistance costs in Albany Township continue to run more than 10 times higher than the area average. And although Department of Human Services officials now acknowledge there was laxity in the past, they say they can find no evidence of fraud, either past or present.

In June, the Citizen reported that welfare costs in Albany were many times higher than in other area towns. That article, plus reports from area residents who claimed to know of fraudulent welfare payments, led DHS officials to conduct an internal investigation of the situation.

In inter-department memoranda obtained by The Citizen, DHS officials concluded that assistance is now being granted only in those situations where the client is eligible.

In a telephone interview with The Citizen, Daniel O'Leary, director of the DHS Special Services Unit, defended the conclusions, but would offer no explanation for the high welfare costs in Albany. He would say only, "We have guidelines that we follow. Everything is done by the book."

General Assistance for Albany and Mason townships is administered by an agent of the DHS, Mary Fox, of Stoneham, held that position for eight years until resigning on March 1 of this year. She was replaced on April 1 by Robert Sessions, of Norway.

In a Sept. 2 memorandum to Mr. O'Leary

Saunders' trial date set for Oct. 31, in Rockland

The trial of Alfred Saunders of Bethel, accused of murdering his wife Joan in 1981, is scheduled to begin Oct. 31 at the Knox County Superior Court, in Rockland.

The state charges that Mr. Saunders shot his wife twice with a shotgun and then buried her body under the basement floor of their Bird Hill home.

He maintains that she committed suicide while under the influence of drugs and alcohol, and that he then buried her body in order to protect their two young sons.

If convicted of the murder charge, Mr. Saunders faces a sentence of 25 years to life imprisonment. A manslaughter conviction—also a possibility under Maine law—would bring a maximum sentence of 25 years imprisonment.

The trial was originally scheduled for Oxford County Superior Court, but Mr. Saunders' attorney, E. James Burke, of Lewiston, was successful in seeking a change of venue on the grounds of the extensive pre-trial publicity the case has received in Oxford County.

from Gary Veilleux, the unit's assistant director, Mr. Veilleux wrote: "Granted, the previous agent [Mrs. Fox] was lax in granting assistance."

Mr. Veilleux did not specify in what way Mrs. Fox had allegedly been lax, however; and Mr. O'Leary told The Citizen that during her tenure there were "no problems" that he knew of.

Mr. Veilleux went on to write: "I sincerely feel that Mr. Sessions will continue to grant assistance only in those cases where the client is eligible."

However, Mr. Veilleux's own analysis of the case load and payments for the first four months of Mr. Sessions' tenure show that the average level of assistance is still running more than 10 times higher than in other area towns.

The number of cases and expenditures have declined from April to July (some decline in the summer is normal, Mr. O'Leary said), but if the four-month figures were annualized, the total expenditure still comes out to nearly $16,000 for a population of approximately 350. By contrast, the SAD #44 towns plus West Paris have a combined population of over 6,500 and last year spent less than $10,000 on general assistance.

A number of local people have complained of assistance recipients collecting in both Bethel (or other towns) and Albany, but Mr. O'Leary said the department's investigation had found no evidence of that.

Mr. Veilleux's memo stated that he cultural performances to the Bethel area. A total of 114 people (big and little) competed in the event.

THANKS TO GOVERNMENT LARGESSE of more than $1 million (in cash and in kind) Bethel's Col. Dyke Field now has a new—and newly paved—runway. The town still needs a new, or rebuilt, sewer system and additions to the water supply system. Did the government get its priorities wrong?

From Augusta

Sen. R. Donald Twitchell

How many times have you charged in to the voting booth with a babysitter waiting at home, someone waiting in the car, or an important appointment to make—and found yourself staring at a set of referendum questions you hadn't had a chance to study beforehand? Knowing how frustrating that can be, I developed this referendum summary sheet so that you can review the questions at your convenience and be prepared when Election Day arrives. I hope this is helpful to you. If you have any questions please do not hesitate to call me.

• Referendum Question #1—Shall a bond issue be authorized in the amount of $3,200,000 for establishment of a statewide 911 system?

Rapidly developing technology in the field of telecommunications provides the opportunity for a statewide emergency services network which is easily accessible, professionally staffed and includes additional services which are not currently available. This bond issue would establish an enhanced statewide 911 emergency telephone system by July 1, 1993, to improve the delivery of emergency services to Maine people.

• Referendum Question #2—Do you favor a $3,000,000 bond issue to build, repair or renovate public safety facilities?

Funds will provide for the construction and renovation of public safety facilities throughout the State of Maine. These funds will be used to construct a police barracks on Route 202 in Alfred at a cost of $334,968; to construct a new garage complex in South Portland at a cost of $337,113; to convert a presently unoccupied administration building at the Pineland Center to a regional communications center at a cost of $1,617,104; to repair the building foundation and associated drain field at the Thomaston barracks at a cost of $110,000; and to construct a new addition and repair the foundation at the Orono barracks at a cost of $400,813.

• Referendum Question #3—Do you favor a $13,000,000 bond issue for the investigation, abatement, clean up and mitigation of uncontrolled hazardous substance sites, for cleaning up and closing solid waste landfills, and for removal of underground oil storage tanks, all of which pose a hazard to public health, the environment and ground water quality?

This bond issue will provide $5 million to match federal superfund dollars for continuing the cleanup of the 150 identified hazardous waste sites in Maine. An additional $5 million of this bond issue is for the second installment of the estimated $40 million necessary to deal with our hazardous solid waste landfills. The remaining $3 million will assist in the removal of about 20 percent of the underground storage tanks requiring such attention.

• Referendum Question #4—Do you favor a $12,000,000 bond issue for sewerage facilities construction?

If approved, $5.5 million of this bond issue will be used for construction of sewerage treatment facilities in St. George, Vinalhaven, Denmark and Jonesport. $3.7 million will be used to supplement the highest priority hardship projects and to upgrade facilities in St. Agatha, Mars Hill, Norway, Corinna and Ashland. $1.8 million will be combined with the required local participation to match federal funds for the continued construction of upgrading sewerage treatment facilities in Bangor and Brunswick. The remaining $1 million will be used for small community wastewater treatment projects.

• Referendum Question #5—Do you favor a $5,000,000 bond issue for the establishment of an adaptive equipment loan program which would enable persons with disabilities to purchase adaptive equipment necessary to their independence?

Due to high costs, a variety of technological aids that enhance independence in the home, workplace and other environments are presently unavailable to consumers with a disability. This bond issue establishes the Adaptive Equipment Loan Program Fund Board which, in conjunction with the Finance Authority of Maine, will create a revolving loan fund for technological aids to help disabled people at home or work.

• Referendum Question #6—Do you favor a $36,800,000 bond issue for the construction and upgrading of libraries, classrooms, laboratories and other educational facilities at all branches of the University of Maine system?

Money from this bond issue would go to make major improvements and additions to educational facilities at all branches of the University of Maine system. Included in the list are: University of Maine (Orono): $18.4 million, for a new science building, a new business administration building and classrooms, a communications system for all campus buildings, renovations to academic buildings and a performing arts building; University of Southern Maine (Portland): $9.15 million, for a major library addition; University of Maine at Farmington: $3 million, for academic building renovations and expansion of the health, physical education and recreation facilities; University of Maine at Kennebec: $1.1 million, for a new science wing; University of Maine at Machias: $1 million, for academic building renovations, a support building for equipment and completion of the performing arts area; University of Maine at Presque Isle: $1.95 million, for a campus center, a support building to house materials and equipment and renovations to academic buildings; University of Maine at Augusta: $2.2 million, for a library addition and renovations to the student center.

• Constitutional Amendment—Shall the Constitution of Maine be amended to remove gender-biased language in order to clarify that the Constitution applies to all individuals?

The purpose of this Constitutional Resolution is to change male gender references in the Constitution of Maine to gender-neutral references. This proposal does not change any meaning or intent in the Constitution of Maine but rather clarifies existing language and applies it to all individual citizens of the state.

In my reporting of the Gould Academy Alumni Weekend events last week, I made two inaccurate statements. First, Dana Douglass, not Dick, donated surveying services to the new playing field construction project. (It was stated that Dick Douglass donated fill.) Second, Joe Hillier, given the Faculty Award last weekend, taught business courses, not industrial arts, in addition to coaching basketball and advising for the yearbook. I apologize for this confusion of the facts.

Kirk G. Siegel

The article should have also credited Denny Wilson with actually building the fields, rather than listing him as the equipment operator. Ed.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

As field training Exercise Firestorm 88, a 10th Division and 10th Special Forces Group combined unconventional warfare exercise, draws to a close, I would like to take the opportunity to thank the residents of both New Hampshire and Maine for their support, assistance, and patience, without which the exercise would not have been the unqualified success it has been.

During the exercise, Green Berets from Fort Devens, Massachusetts, infiltrated the White Mountains National Forest from bases in New York, established contact with soldiers portraying local resistance forces, conducted training, and began conducting simulated combat operations.

Forces from the 10th Mountain Division (light infantry) arrived from Fort Drum, New York, to portray local security forces and immediately began operations to counter the resistance force activity.

Local civilians have supported both sides of the exercise by providing intelligence information and other types of substantive support. The exercise would not have been as realistic or as significant a training event without this support.

We are also aware that during our peak activity periods there were complaints from the local area about low-flying helicopters late at night. For these disturbances I apologize. We have attempted to reduce or eliminate these incidents within our capability.

Exercise Firestorm officially ended Oct. 9 and all participating soldiers will return to their home stations by Oct. 13. We greatly appreciate the support we have received and the spirit in which it was offered and provided. Thank you once again.

David Bowdoin Plummer II
Lieutenant Colonel, Special Forces

To the Editor:

I read with interest Carroll Murphy's letter in last week's Citizen. I'm afraid he did not quote me correctly. My plea at the [school board] meeting on Sept. 13 was to give the Wednesday afternoon plan, approved early in the summer, a chance to work. I felt then (and still feel) that the Board of Directors has an obligation to the staff to honor its word and at least try this plan. I know many of those who attended that meeting were opposed to the plan, but I also heard support in favor voiced as well.

I always listen to citizen comments, but I am not the board member who is swayed with every blast of the political wind. I believe members are elected for their informed judgment and not to necessarily vote the way the last person who discussed a particular question requested. It is often a difficult choice that confronts every board member, but he or she, in my opinion, should demonstrate the courage of his or her convictions.

Stan Howe

To the Editor:

On the evening of Oct. 5 I was talking to a school board member. The member told me in all the three years she has been on the board, nobody has called her on any issues that the board has come up with. I was the only one that has called her on the half-days on Wednesday. She told me since she hasn't gotten any calls, people either like what she is doing or they just don't care.

I talked to another school board member and they [also] said "I have never gotten any calls."

Citizens of the district, I ask if you care at all for your children's future please call a school board member or members and voice your opinion. If you think they are doing a good job tell them. Everybody deserves a pat on the back every once in a while. If you disagree with a board member or members, they want to know about it. The board values your opinion. Who knows, maybe just by talking to them you might be able to change their mind to your way of thinking.

Just one more thing you have to remember: school board members represent your town. I feel our children's future lies in the decision the board makes. So let us fight to keep our children in school five full days a week. Call a board member today and tell them how you feel. Your children depend on it.

A note from the publisher

The tops of the hills are white with snow from some flurries late last week and again on Saturday. It doesn't seem possible that just a few weeks ago we were sweltering.

Greenwood City columnist Colista Morgan, in her column this week, explains in exquisite language what has happened:

"October has killed the summer.... November will come to trample the bodies of dead leaves and bear summer away. The mad doctor of chemistry has killed a season, made us a year older, but has done it so artistically that we don't mind. We welcome the change."

Some of us may welcome the change. Those of us who don't have our wood in yet most certainly do not.

The Stowells-Dexter and Jan—certainly have the right idea for getting wood into their basement on Paradise: get your kids to invite all their friends for the weekend and form a long line from the wood pile into the cellar; keep the chowder hot and the beer cold until the work is finished.

They put away nine cords last weekend with this tried and true method—this was the ninth year they've tried it.

Remember Muhammad Ali's colorful gibe at one or another unfortunate opponent: "I'll whip him like his daddy." That's exactly what happened to Dan Quayle in last Wednesday's vice-presidential debate.

Being a newspaperman, I rarely have anything good to say about television as a medium for news coverage. But if you only read about the debate in the newspapers, or if you only heard it on radio, you missed much of the essence. Quayle was going along well enough until midway into the debate when Lloyd Benson hit him with a body blow that he was never thereafter able to recover from. "You're no Jack Kennedy" was the punch that took Quayle right out of the fight.

Prior to that hammer blow, Quayle had eyes that moved in a normal way and a mouth that moved in a normal way. But after being doubled-over by Benson, Quayle's eyes had a glazed, wide-eyed appearance, and his mouth took on a thin grimace as if waiting for the next blow that would knock him over.

The second punch never came. But it wasn't needed.

Nevertheless, Quayle still has his supporters among those who intend to vote for George Bush. I was talking to a lady last week who thought he would make a fine vice-president, and an able president—if called upon to take that office. Polls show that that view is a definite minority view, however.

I was talking to a few Telstar teachers recently about the 24th Olympics just concluded in Seoul. The teachers said they were disturbed by the win-at-any-cost ethic that seems to have replaced the Olympic ideal of bringing together athletes of various lands and cultures to compete in the spirit of good sportsmanship.

The teachers were also disturbed by the display of anti-Americanism on the part of the south Koreans—our so-called allies, and a protectorate of the United States.

I'm not a diplomat, but I think the Koreans' anti-Americanism is easy enough to appreciate. Granted the country would have been overrun by the communist north in 1950 had the U.S. not stepped in, at a cost of over 50,000 American lives. But just think how our Revolutionary forebears would have felt had our French allies stayed on American soil 38 years after helping us defeat the British. They wouldn't have liked it—and neither do the south Koreans.

Bethel Planning Board has full agenda tonight

When the Bethel Planning Board meets tonight (Wednesday), members will once again discuss the site plan application of Bill Dutton for his proposed 60-unit condominium project on the Sunday River Road. The application has already gone through public hearing and is awaiting a decision by the board.

The board will also get a first look at two other site plan applications: Mountain Side Country Crafts, by Nancy Cummings; and The Mill at Sunday River, by the Village Development Group.

Representatives of Bob Bahre are expected to present a final plan for the South Paris developer's Bird Hill Estates subdivision.

The board will also tackle the question of site plan review applicability in the cases of Harry Doggett and Brooks Bros.

The meeting will be at the Bethel Town Office, beginning at 7 p.m.

The board will meet early next week—on Oct. 17 or Oct. 19—to review a draft of the amended Site Plan Review Ordinance, which is expected to go to special town meeting later this fall.

BOOSTERS CLUB TO MEET
The Telstar Athletic Boosters Club will meet Thursday, Oct. 13, at 7 p.m., in the Telstar library. They will be discussing projects for the year. Parents, grandparents and friends of Telstar athletes are urged to attend.

The group is small and needs more help with its projects. If you're willing to help but can't attend the meeting, call Sarah Craig, at 824-2777, after 4 p.m., and let her know you would be willing to help on any of the projects.

checked out a list of people identified as "program abusers" by "a concerned citizen" but could find no one that was collecting in more than one town.

"The records in Bethel do not indicate that any of the named clients were assisted in Bethel," he reported. "Two on the list now live in Bethel, but according to the Town Manager move back and forth from Albany to Bethel."

Mr. Veilleux then made the following observation: "It's interesting to note that one of the concerned citizens is a landlord and makes a habit of bringing potentially eligible clients into the town office for General Assistance rental assistance."

In a subsequent memo from Mr. O'Leary to Joe Plourde, DHS fiscal administrator, this was changed to read: "...one of the most local [vocal?] complainers is a landlord who habitually refers potential clients to the General Assistance Office."

Asked the significance of this fact was, Mr. O'Leary would only say: "I just don't understand why all this went on, all these untrue accusations, especially when they're [the concerned citizen] involved in the program."

But while the DHS investigation has turned up only "untrue accusations," and vague references to past laxity, assistance expenditures in Albany continue to run many times higher than anywhere else in the area.

CONSTITUTIONAL DEBATES

ON TAP AT OHHS IN NOVEMBER

In celebration of the 20th anniversary of the U.S. Constitution, a Jefferson meeting will be held Nov. 15 and 16, 6:30-9:30 p.m., at the Oxford Hills High School library.

Under a grant from the Maine Humanities Council, and with the support of the Washington, D.C.-based Jefferson Foundation, all citizens of the Oxford Hills area are invited to register and participate as delegates. Debate topics will be selected from among such constitutional issues as: campaigns, money and the public good; direct election of the president vs. the Electoral College; establishing terms for federal judges; and the presidential term of office—a single six-year term? Application to become a delegate may be made by contacting the Adult and Community Education office, 743-8482. There is a modest registration fee to cover the cost of discussion guides.

SAWLAY AND SMITH PLAY

SOCCER FOR USM SQUAD

Brandon Sawlay and Shawn Smith, both of Bethel, are on the USM men's soccer team. Sawlay will be a striker for the team. Smith, who is one of the tri-captains of the team, will be a back.

It's not just that the GIs are still on Korean soil. More to the point, a U.S. general is still in nominal control of all Korean military forces. This makes Koreans second-class citizens in their own country, and they resent it.

Moreover, the Koreans blame the U.S. military presence for supporting one dictator after another—first Park Chung-hee, then Chun Doo-hwan.

The Reagan-Bush team failed miserably in learning the lesson of what happens on the flip side when U.S.-supported dictators are overthrown. We put in power the Shah of Iran and are now viewed as the Great Satan there; we acquiesced in Marcos' martial law regime in Manila and now are the targets of street violence and threats to our bases at Clark and Subic; we helped overthrow Allende in Chile and will likely be pilloried there if the Chileans manage to get rid of Pinochet; and in Nicaragua we are still paying the price of having put Somoza into power.

A great power must act with great respect for the sovereignty of smaller states. The age of imperialism is over, but I wonder if George Bush realizes it.

Motor vehicle theft increased 13 percent (1,010 compared to 891) with the value of stolen vehicles totaling $4,824,472. Law enforcement officers recovered 758 motor vehicles, for a recovery rate of 76.4 percent.

Arson decreased 26.3 percent during the first six months of this year compared to the same period of last year, 126 in 1988, 171 for 1987. A total of $790,534 worth of property was damaged so far this year due to arson.

Crime in rural sections of Maine decreased slightly in comparison to urban crime occurrence (down 1.9 percent vs. 1.5 percent). Preliminary first six-month crime rates indicate rural crime rates at 17.3 offenses per 1,000 population with rates posted at 47.3 offenses per 1,000 for urban dwellers.

Crime statistics steady during first half of year—but rapes increase 55%

State Uniform Crime Reports for January through June show the number of crimes reported in the state has remained fairly constant compared to the same period last year. Crimes reported to law enforcement agencies in Maine increased by only 9 percent for the first half of 1988 compared with the same 1987 period.

There were 19,035 reported index crimes compared to 18,690 reported for the same 1987 period. The crime index is comprised of murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny-theft, motor vehicle theft and arson reported offenses.

State Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) statistics compiled from state, county and municipal police departments show violent crime (i.e., murder, rape, robbery and aggravated assault) decreased by 10.8 percent and property crime (i.e., burglary, larceny-theft, motor vehicle theft and arson) increased 1.4 percent.

Murder decreased from 15 offenses in the first six months of 1987 to 14 for the same period this year, with law enforcement showing a 64.3 percent clearance rate (i.e., arrest, summons, etc.) rate. Preliminary figures for nine months of 1988 indicate murder up 44.4 percent of the same period from 1987. Influencing this most unpredictable crime is the occurrence of two incidents where there were multiple victims. Historically, approximately 40 percent of Maine's homicides occur in the last quarter of the year, which may point to an unusually high year-end figure.

Rapes increased 55.3 percent, from 76 for the first six months of 1987 to 118 for 1988. Of that number, 106 were actual rape, while 12 were attempts of rape. Areas of the state with the highest increases were primarily the urban areas.

Robbery decreased 18.5 percent, with 123 offenses reported compared to 151 for the first six months of last year.

Aggravated assaults decreased 17.2 percent during January-June this year, showing 510 compared to 616 for the same period of 1987. Assaults involving personal weapons (hands, fists, feet) accounted for 56.8 percent of all aggravated assaults.

Burglaries numbered 4,418 reported offenses, reflecting a 7.3 percent increase over the first six months of last year, with items valued at a total of $2,563,697 reported stolen. The greatest change was noted in residential daytime burglaries, up 19.5 percent (835 in 1987, 905 in 1988).

Larceny-theft (the unlawful taking of property from another with the intent to deprive ownership) decreased 8 percent. Property stolen during larcenies totaled $3,661,767 for the six-month reporting period.

Motor vehicle theft increased 13 percent (1,010 compared to 891) with the value of stolen vehicles totaling $4,824,472. Law enforcement officers recovered 758 motor vehicles, for a recovery rate of 76.4 percent.

A note from the publisher

The tops of the hills are white with snow from some flurries late last week and again on Saturday. It doesn't seem possible that just a few weeks ago we were sweating.

Greenwood City columnist, Colista Morgan, in her column this week, explains in exquisite language what has happened:

"October has killed the summer."

"November will come to trample the bodies of dead leaves and bear summer away. The mad doctor of chemistry has killed a season, made us a year older, but has done it so artistically that we don't mind. We welcome the change."

Some of us may welcome the change. Those of us who don't have our wood in yet most certainly do not.

The Stowells-Dexter and Jan—certainly have the right idea for getting wood into their basement on Paradise—get your kids to invite all their friends for the weekend and form a long line from the wood pile into the cellar; keep the chowder hot and the beer cold until the work is finished.

They put away nine cords last weekend with this tried and true method—this was the ninth year they've tried it.

checked out a list of people identified as "program abusers" by a "concerned citizen" but could find no one that was collecting in more than one town.

"The records in Bethel do not indicate that any of the named clients were assisted in Bethel," he reported. "Two on the list now live in Bethel, but according to the Town Manager move back and forth from Albany to Bethel."

Mr. Veilleux then made the following observation: "It's interesting to note that one of the concerned citizens is a landlord and makes a habit of bringing potentially eligible clients into the town office for General Assistance rental assistance."

In a subsequent memo from Mr. O'Leary to Joe Plourde, DHS fiscal administrator, this was changed to read: "one of the most vocal [vocal?] complainers is a landlord who habitually refers potential clients to the General Assistance Office."

Asked what the significance of this fact was, Mr. O'Leary would only say: "I just don't understand why all this went on, all these untrue accusations, especially when they're [the concerned citizen] involved in the program."

But while the DHS investigation has turned up only "untrue accusations," and vague references to past laxity, assistance expenditures in Albany continue to run many times higher than anywhere else in the area.

CONSTITUTIONAL DEBATES

ON TAP AT OHHS IN NOVEMBER

In celebration of the 200th anniversary of the U.S. Constitution, a Jefferson meeting will be held Nov. 15 and 16, 8:30-9:30 p.m. at the Oxford Hills High School Library.

Under a grant from the Maine Humanities Council, and with the support of the Washington, D.C.-based Jefferson Foundation, all citizens of the Oxford Hills area are invited to register and participate as delegates. Debate topics will be selected from among such constitutional issues as: campaigns, money and the public good; direct election of the president vs. the Electoral College; establishing terms for federal judges; and the presidential term of office—a single six-year term? Application to become a delegate may be made by contacting the Adult and Community Education office, 743-8842. There is a modest registration fee to cover the cost of discussion guides.

SALWAY AND SMITH PLAY SOCCER FOR USM SQUAD

Brandon Salway and Shawn Smith, both of Bethel, are on the USM men's soccer team. Smith, who is one of the tri-captains of the team, will be a back.

It's not just that the GIs are still on Korean soil. More to the point, a U.S. general is still in nominal control of all Korean military forces. This makes Koreans second-class citizens in their own country, and they resent it.

Moreover, the Koreans blame the U.S. military presence for supporting one dictator after another—first Park Chung-hee, then Chun Doo-hwan.

The Reagan-Bush team failed miserably in learning the lesson of what happens on the flip side when U.S.-supported dictators are overthrown. We put in power the Shah of Iran and are now viewed as the Great Satan there; we acquiesced in Marcos' martial law regime in Manila and now are the targets of street violence and threats to our bases at Clark and Subic; we helped overthrow Allende in Chile and will likely be pilloried there if the Chileans manage to get rid of Pinochet; and in Nicaragua we are still paying the price of having put Somoza into power.

A great power must act with great respect for the sovereignty of smaller states. The age of imperialism is over, but I wonder if George Bush realizes it.

dug a hole intending to place a utility pole near the garage. That hole filled rapidly with dark-colored water, obviously contaminated by a petroleum product.

Town officials called the DEP's Division of Response Services, which investigated the scene. A number of test holes dug at the site also filled with the contaminated water, but DEP's test of a small stream behind the garage showed no sign of contamination.

The source of the leak was first thought to be an underground gasoline tank at the garage, but when the tank was pumped and dug out of the ground it showed no signs of leaking.

Further investigation revealed the actual source to be an above-ground diesel fuel tank at the site, which had been dripping fuel onto the ground. That tank was pumped out earlier this week and will also be removed.

According to Mr. Hooper, testing so far indicates that most of the contaminated soil and water is within a 25- to 30-foot circumference of the leak. (The nearest in-service well is somewhat less than 100 yards away, he said, and in an uphill location from the leak site.)

Mr. Hooper said he expects to meet again with DEP officials this week to try to determine the scope of the problem and the best way to remedy it.

Options which have already been discussed, he said, include digging a deep hole behind the garage to catch the fuel as it migrates toward the stream, and/or digging out the contaminated gravel around the leak and having it "reclaimed" by cooking it to burn off the fuel, and then replacing it.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

Here is a description of Queen Mary, of the William and Mary period in English history:

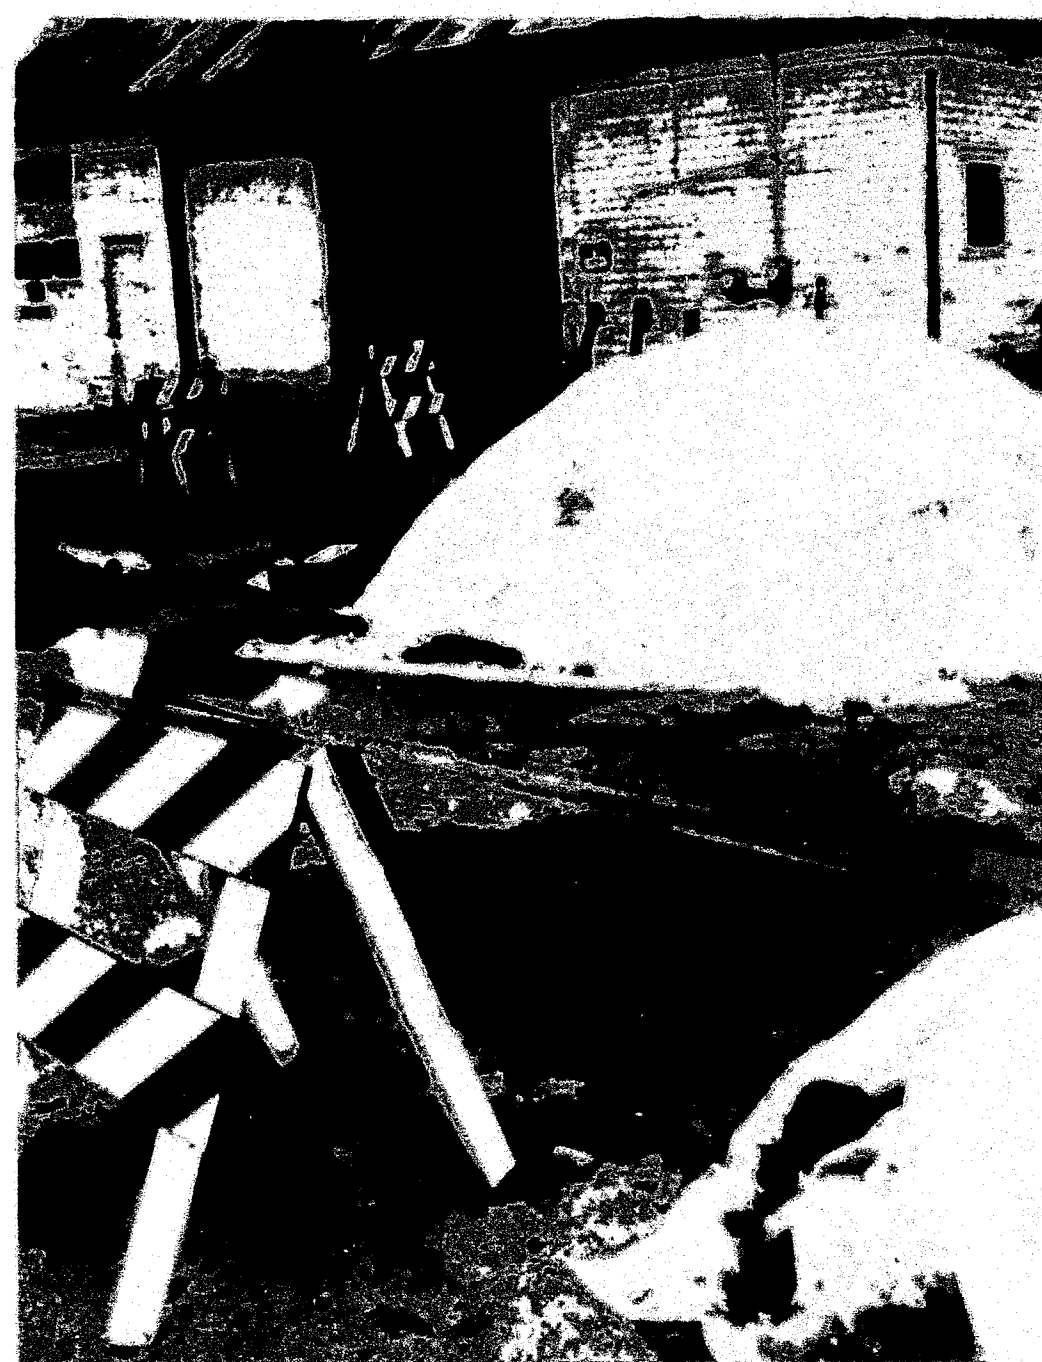

"Her face was handsome—her temper sweet and easy, her manners affable and graceful. Her understanding was quick—she was singularly free of unsensuousness." Thomas B. Macaulay

And here is a little information on Woodstock: The post office has been in many different buildings in town. The Titus family used to operate a meat wagon here. There was once a circus located in the area. The remnants of a mineral spring are still behind the library.

Maine, a decrease of 56 from the first six months of 1987. Specifically, there was an increase of 385 in adult arrests and a decrease of 442 juvenile arrests during the 1988 six-month period compared to the same 1987 period.

The Department of Public Safety is initiating a special rape incident reporting program through the present Uniform Crime Reporting Division that will show in more detail the circumstances surrounding these offenses. Hopefully, with more complete information, law enforcement agencies statewide will learn more about the nature of the crime, who the most likely victims and offenders are, where and when they most often occur. According to Public Safety Commissioner John Atwood, "Such information will be certainly aid in crime prevention and public education efforts. Secondly, the offense information may aid local agencies in identifying regional crime problems where similarities in offender M.O.S. (methods of operation) appear."

In addition, the Department of Public Safety will be pursuing joint efforts with the Maine Coalition on Rape (which represents regional Rape Crisis/Sexual Assault Centers) and the Maine Crime

PETRO PITS—Test holes near the Woodstock Town Garage have filled with oily brown water contaminated by diesel fuel from a nearby storage tank. The leaking has been stopped, but town and DEP officials don't know yet how much soil and water has been contaminated—or how much it will cost the town to clean up the area and stop the contamination from spreading.

Newry officials raise performance bond issue

Newry Planning Board Chairman Jim Sysko told the Board of Selectmen yesterday (Tuesday) that his board had been advised by the town counsel that they should require a performance bond from Glover Development Co. prior to approving their application for a subdivision permit. The developers want to build a subdivision on a lot near the old county road, between Bear River and Sunday River. The attorney suggested, further, that such performance bonds be required for all future subdivisions.

On a separate matter, Mr. Sysko informed the selectmen that the first meeting of the Zoning Committee will be Wednesday evening, to elect a chairman and get organized.

Fire Chief Virgil Conkright reported that he had placed a bid on a used pumper that is for sale by the Town of Peru. Bids are to be opened the end of October. He also reported that the fire department was called out at 5:10 a.m. Monday, when a power outage set off an alarm at the skway. The Bethel Fire Department also responded with a pumper and some men.

The selectmen denied a request for a tax abatement on a condo unit at the skway.

The town has received an application

LEARNING ABOUT MICROWAVES

Safe and Efficient Use of the Microwave Oven will be the topic of a presentation/demonstration to be held at Telstar Regional High School next Wednesday, Oct. 19, 7-9 p.m., by Central Maine Power Company's home economist, Brenda Eddy.

A perennial favorite on the SAD #4 Adult and Community Education calendar, Mrs. Eddy will provide information about the best use of microwaves, share tips and recipes, and prepare a selection of food items for tasting. To enroll, call the SAD #4 Adult and Community Education Office, at 824-2780. The fee is $4; no charge for those 62 and over.

from Contel for permission to bury a telephone cable beside the skway road and also beside a private road. The selectmen approved the request on the skway road and informed Contel that they would still need a road opening permit if they were going to disturb the road itself. The town said they did not have the authority to grant permission to bury cable beside the private road, and that Contel would have to consult the landowner.

The tax collector reported approximately 85 percent of the tax assessment has been collected, with interest accumulating on balances due as of Oct. 1.

Friday, Jean Collett and Debbie Lougee and her two children, of North Windham, visited Joe and Muriel Gilbert.

Leah Deegan spent the weekend with her sister, Marion Soule, at Palermo. Robert and Joe Deegan went to Fryeburg Fair on Friday.

Describing a vehicle for identification is more complicated than I thought. A driver of a truck I met, waved and even though I thought I knew who it was, I asked my eyes when I got home, "Who has a red dump truck with a grill shaped like a described with hands?" "What color was the body? Did it have a tarp? Did it have anything on the grill or the door? How many axles?" they quizzed me.

"It was red." The driver was wearing a red shirt and had a black watch band. I told them through clenched teeth, "You've got to know how many axles," they said shaking their heads in disbelief. "Look, I don't have time to notice all this stuff."

"It only takes a second. Just a glance and you should see all of this stuff."

From now on I must know not only the color of the cab, but also I must notice and remember: the color of the body, the make and year of the truck, the position and color of any signs and the number of axles. Next they will tell me I have to roll down the window and determine if it has a 'Cat, Detroit or Cummings'. Bet-

Mrs. Esther Davis and Olive Davis were in Lewiston Saturday afternoon. Esther called on her sister-in-law, Mrs. Don Brown, who is in the St. Mary's Hospital.

Grange meetings called Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks, Olive Davis, Richard and Barbara Felt, Florence Gustafson and Lucille Robbins on Monday night. Tuesday night Oxford Pomona was held with Franklin Grange with a 6:30 supper at which we officiated in entertaining Pomona. A degree team conferred the fifth degree. Richard Felt is master of Pomona now, having just been installed last month.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hoyt put some wood in the shed for Olive Davis.

We lost our lights for over half an hour Tuesday morning just at a crucial moment when the neighbors were cooking off bread. I was more fortunate as I had a fire in my end heater, so Esther Davis was helping me prepare a scallop and we could use the stove until the electricity came back on.

That's it this week. Have a good time and enjoy Fryeburg Fair.

The big news of the week is snow. It drifted down all day Wednesday as rain changed to snow shortly after daylight. Mostly it melted as it landed, but two inches accumulated on the cars. Patches of the stuff remained through Thursday.

It was a rare and lovely sight on the hills, where the snow-covered evergreens stood on top and the hillsides below were adorned with the hardwoods wearing their red, yellow and green leaves. I admired the beauty, but this year I was also frightened. Winter can be too dark and confining, and it pointed its cold and icy finger at us too soon.

Several flocks of geese have been seen or heard flying southward. If the hummingbirds fly on their backs where have these hummers been the last few weeks? Do they go north and snuggle in or go south part way and wait at some prearranged spot?

Sidney Abbott, Bruce and Nelda Buck, of East Sumner, were guests at Heritage Farm one day this week.

Peter and Lisa Goodreau are moving into the Mae Goodreau trailer home from the Brennon home.

Ed and Arlene Bernier, of DeSoto, Texas, visited his parents over the weekend. They drive a car hauler and had a delivery in nearby New Hampshire. Lou and Ellen Bernier, Joe and Penny Bernier and Melaine Farmer visited them at different times during the weekend.

Doug Foret has moved from the Washington, D.C. area to Brighton and has employment in Windham. He has wanted to make this move for several years so he could spend more time at his camp here.

Forward Fellowship group met at Goodwill Hall on Monday, Sept. 26, for a potluck supper and meeting. Final plans were made for the pumpkin sale, food sale and "white elephant" table that will be held on Oct. 15. Publicity will be handled by Eleanor Inman; in charge of selling coffee, cider and donuts will be Virginia Hyam and Peg Perham; June Demarest and Esther Davis will attend to the sale of food; and selling "white elephants" will be Dede Chase, Cynthia Lamb, Judy McLaughlin and Beverly Stevens. The Youth Group will be selling pumpkins and also will have an "odds and ends" table. Milton Inman and Cynthia Lamb will take care of signs. A silent auction was held after the meeting. The next meeting will be at the home of Peg Perham on Monday, Oct. 24, preceded by a potluck supper. Plans will be made at that time for the chicken pie supper and fall sale, to be held Nov. 17.

The Firemen's Auxiliary met Monday evening, Oct. 3, with eight members and two firemen present. We voted to accept the invitation to attend the supper with the Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary and Firemen on Tuesday, Oct. 25. Our members are to furnish dessert.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Chase and Miriam Inman met with Mr. and Mrs. Sayward Lamb Wednesday evening to make plans for the hunter's breakfast to be served Saturday, Oct. 29, at the former I.O.O.F. building, sponsored by the West Paris Historical Society.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Inman attended a reunion of the 87th Infantry Division in Baltimore, Md., during the past week. While there, they went to Atlantic City, N.J., and Gettysburg, Pa.

Ann Proctor and Ivan Jr. spent several days at their trailer in Stratton last weekend, making the most of the lovely fall weather. Some different today—Saturday! It's going to be a long, cold winter!

Don't forget that the Grange will be holding a bake sale and flea market on Saturday, Oct. 15, starting at 9 a.m. If anyone is interested in renting a table get in touch with Mary Lovejoy at 674-2147 or Ellie Connell at 743-5042.

Known as the "eyes and ears" of the unit, scouts observe and learn as much as they can about a tactical situation and then report their findings to their commander.

Everett and Dede Chase as host and hostess. A meeting will follow. Sayward and Cynthia Lamb are planning the entertainment along a Halloween theme. You are encouraged to come in costume, but do come anyway. Sounds like it should be fun.

And if you are looking for a pumpkin for a Jack-o-Lantern, plan to be at Emery's Building Materials at Trap Corner on Saturday, Oct. 15, where you will find just what you are looking for. There will also be home-cooked food on sale, coffee, cider and donut holes. Someone's discarded items on the white elephant table might be just what someone else can use, so there will be some of those for sale. This sale will benefit the Universalist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Rice and family, of Guilford, Conn., were overnight callers Friday and Saturday with their family, Earlon and Mary Rice Keniston. They came to attend the funeral services for his sister, Sally Rice Paul Twitchell, following her death last Wednesday. Other family members, Mr. and Mrs. Alton Howe and April, and Donald Rice and son Sheldon, all of Waterford, were at the Kenistons throughout the day Saturday. The Connecticut Rices returned to Guilford late Saturday night.

Bud and Shirley Clough, of the Flat Road, West Bethel, hosted a coffee for family and friends at their home following the Sally Twitchell services at Song Cemetery.

CONVENTION TO FOCUS ON PROGRAM OF LOCAL TEACHER

The National Science Teachers Association regional convention to be held in Portland on Oct. 13, 14 and 15 will host many outstanding opportunities for science teachers in the areas of curriculum and the many changes occurring in science.

Among the presentations to be made at the convention will be "A plan for science excellence and continuum in rural Maine schools K-12."

This presentation stems from an innovative Grant written and implemented by Lawrence Arsenault, K-12 science coordinator of SAD #44.

The Innovative Grant was awarded to SAD #44 by the Maine Department of Educational and Cultural Services in 1985-86. Many of the SAD #44 school staff were involved in the development and implementation of this program, including teachers working with children from the five towns of Andover, Bethel, Greenwood, Newry and Woodstock.

The innovation provided a multi-directional effort to promote the development of a vigorous K-12 science program in a rural Maine school system—one that is process-oriented with "hands-on" opportunities.

It provided an array of curriculum tools, lab kits, text materials, teacher training in K-6 science and a coordinator for the K-12 science program. The proposal included a "pilot" semester program in Grade 9 to improve pupils' applied math skills with unit analysis and special problem-solving techniques.

A "School and Community Science Exhibit Day" was designed to promote school and community interaction, utilizing citizen displays, a NASA Moonrock display and a multitude of pupil-generated science achievements. This activity was intended to promote community support for the science program, provide local recognition for science achievements, stimulate teachers to promote science and generate a sense of pride in scientific endeavors that a youngster, a science group, a citizen or a nation may undertake.

A "Young Scientist of the Month" program recognized individual performance through the use of certificates, science prizes and publicity.

We hope all business people can look off into the future with white peaks and know we enjoy the colors while they last.

The Chamber had a festive booth at the Blue Mountains Festival this week, thanks to all the volunteers, and especially Dan, chairman.

Our "shop local" campaign develop a sense of pride and competitive performance. This model program was written by Mr. Arsenault, science teacher at Telstar Regional, was selected from among competitors by the National Science Teachers Association as one of the top 100 science curriculum categories.

Newry

By AMY HANSCOM

The Ladies Circle of Newry Community Church met at the home of Olive Anderson, Monday, Oct. 3, at 7:30 p.m. Olive led the devotion after opening the meeting. Six members were present. The minutes of the September meeting were read and corrections accepted that Newry Church would pay the insurance due on it. The treasurer's report was made and accepted. A motion was made and seconded to permit secretary, Freda Robertson to buy a new minute book and box of cards for use by the Circle. The church treasurer's report was made and accepted. Members were asked to bring in completed tray ornaments to Dec. 5 meeting. Dues were received from members. The food sale arrangements were made. Gilberto Seeley and Sylvia Gray have promised to make pastries, and an ad will be put in The Citizen. The food sale will be Nov. 18 and goodies will be picked up Thursday evening, Nov. 17. Gilberto Seeley moved that the Ladies Circle go to lunch at Far East Restaurant, Mexico, on Thursday, Oct. 27, at 12 noon. Louise Tetley will make reservations.

The next meeting will be held at Louise Tetley's on Nov. 7.

Louise Tetley made a motion to adjourn and Gilberto Seeley seconded it.

After refreshments, a silent auction was held and Louise Learned led a contest to guess the number of beans in a jar. Helen Cook guessed the nearest correct amount and won the prize.

Any contributions to the Nov. 18 food sale will be greatly appreciated.

Dick and Nancy Carboneau and Dan and Pat Riley, of Milan, N.H., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Tetley.

UNITED METHODIST WOMEN

The Bethel United Methodist Women met Thursday, Oct. 6, at the Methodist Church. The business meeting was chaired by UMW President Lyndell Carter.

Women from area churches gathered to hear guest speaker Kenneth Carstens, executive director of the International Defense and Aid Fund for Southern Africa.

IDAF was founded in the 1950s to provide legal defense for anti-apartheid activists involved in the non-violent campaign to defy unjust laws and to provide aid for their families.

Mr. Carstens encouraged support of sanctions on the government of South Africa as a non-violent means to end apartheid.

A tea was served in the fellowship hall by hostesses Betty Blake, Eleanor Parson and Verna Dyke.

Sunday, Oct. 2 Donald and Vera Tetley, of West Warwick, R.I., were guests of Columbus Day weekend.

Betsy Clark, Louise Tetley, Gilberto Seeley, Karlene Bachelder, June Swan and Olive Anderson were at Oxford Lanes, Rumford, bowling Oct. 5. Karlene won high on single and triple string, with one string 129. One over 300 in a three string.

Louise Tetley and Gilberto Seeley went to Fryeburg Fair Oct. 4.

The Newry Mothers Club will hold a food sale Oct. 14 at Bethel I.G.A. at 9 a.m.

Pastor Hanscom's service Oct. 2 was titled "Beauty." Scriptures were taken from Jeremiah 31:31-34 and St. John 3:14-21.

Locke Mills

By LORRAINE MILLS

The Greenwood Fire Department will hold its training session Tuesday, Oct. 18, at 6:30 p.m. at the Fire Station.

The Ladies Circle will meet Wednesday, Oct. 19, at 1:30 p.m. at the Sunday School room of the Locke Mills Union Church. The ladies will also be going to Rumford Point in the evening to meet with their ladies group.

The Locke Mills Union Church will be having an apple festival, Saturday, Oct. 29, 10-2. More details will be given later.

An official farewell and appreciation day was held Sunday, Sept. 25, for Silver Leamon. She took part in the service and then attended a picnic at Dick and Bev Melville's. She was given a gift of a lap writing desk by the church.

Charlotte Cole, Daniel Cole and a friend went to Rutland, Vt., Saturday, to visit Verna Sterling, former resident of Newry and a good friend of the family. Since she will celebrate her 87th birthday Oct. 21, they took her out to dinner for an early birthday present.

People have been moving back home from their camps. The Gibbess moved back to North Paris for the winter, and Helen Chase has moved back to her home on Howe Hill. John and Leatrice Chase and Crystal already had moved back at the beginning of school.

Everyone seems to be taking trips to New Hampshire and Vermont. John and I went over the Mt. Washington Auto Road through Crawford Notch on Sunday. We picked up the interstate in Bethlehem into St. Johnsbury where we had lunch. Then to Colchester to see our son Ralph, and have supper with him. Then it was back on the road again. We stopped in St. Johnsbury again for a short rest. We, at that point, rather envied the dog. Joshua decided about then he'd seen all the sights he needed to see; it was too dark to see much anyhow, so he promptly sacked out on the back seat, rolled over on his back and went to sleep. We never heard another peep out of him until we rolled into town about 11:15 p.m. We had driven almost 11 hours. How people drive for a living I'll never know or care to find out. But the drive was beautiful, even though it was a misty sort of day. We'd enjoyed our visit, although brief, with Ralph, so it made all the tiredness worth it.

Harry Swan Jr. and Margery enjoyed the Gould Alumni weekend. They attended Harry's 40th reunion luncheon with about 10 of his classmates, saw many old friends and attended the field dedication to Mr. Booth and Mr. Anderson.

Charlotte Cole and Mansfield Packard furnished the program at the Senior Citizen dinner in Bryant Pond at the Town Hall.

Mary Mills has been spending this past week getting treatment at the Rumford Community Hospital. We all hope she will be home by the time the paper comes out.

Well, John and I are off again. We will be attending a Sunday school convention in Lewiston this Saturday, Oct. 8—will pick up Marcia's dog on the way back as Jon will be going in the hospital for surgery on Tuesday and Marcia will be staying in Oakland with her sister-in-law to be nearer the Waterville hospital. On Sunday we will celebrate our 34th wedding anniversary with our church family in Rumford, if we survive our busy schedule, that is!

A couple other comments: we really enjoy the innovative approach of the new correspondent who writes the column in the form of a letter. What a neat idea!

North Paris

By DORIS C. LAWRENCE

We have had some mixed weather and the foliage is beautiful.

Saturday, Oct. 1, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reidy, from Tyngsboro, Mass., who have been visiting their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Spenser, were given an anniversary party and they celebrated Joe's birthday. Saturday evening they attended the West Paris Grange dance, and the Anniversary Waltz was played special for them. Some wore costumes, and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Chase won the prize for the best Halloween costume.

Mr. and Mrs. David Broberg and family have moved into their new home on the Trask Road.

Mrs. Susan Lyons and Elliot are back home after spending the summer with her parents at Peaks Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson Sr. had dinner with Joe Vatcher and Fannie, Wednesday, Oct. 5. Too damp to go to the Fryeburg Fair.

A community meeting was held at Joe Vatcher's Wednesday evening. A ham supper was planned for Oct. 29.

Sunday, Oct. 2, the Lawrences called on Polly Lawrence, but only Karen Rolfe was there; no one home at Ellery Lawrence's. Visited Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heath, Amanda and Jeremy. Callers have been Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott, Joe Vatcher, Fannie Whitten and Joe Kalmouski.

Let's not forget the supper at West Summer Grange Hall, Oct. 15, 5:30-7 p.m. Entertainment for the early birds, and dancing, 6-8 p.m. Then dance to the music of the famous "Old Parisians", 8-12, to benefit Oxford Hills Hospice (HOPE) fund. It will be well worth your time and money. Donation: $4.

Tri-Town Rescue is having a potluck supper at the "Barn" at Trap Corner, Oct. 22, more details later.

Thursday, Oct. 6, Gertrude Burney visited Mr. and Mrs. Norman Abbott and Mr. and Mrs. Cleon Pukham.

IRISH EVANGELIST AT CHURCH

An international evangelist from Northern Ireland, in the United Kingdom, will be visiting the Church of the Nazarene in Bethel from Friday, Oct. 14, to Sunday, Oct. 16, 7 p.m. Friday, 10:30 a.m. Saturday and 6 p.m. Sunday. He is the Rev. G. Kelynn R. Adams who not only preaches, but sings gospel songs with a piano accompanist.

The other is not a new observation but an old one that sometimes needs repeating: one never appreciates what goes into keeping an organization going until one gets involved in it. Once again I want to take my hat off to the Tri-Town Ambulance crew who, on Wednesday, kept both ambulances busy transporting people to and from hospitals. Two of the attendants had worked all night and had to be very tired. Two of the back-up crew were on vacation—some vacation! It's that kind of dedication that makes our Tri-Town Rescue Service so great, and we all ought to be very grateful we have them. You may be one of the many fortunate people who never have had to use it, but it's there in case you ever do. So when you get the opportunity and can do so, please support the service. You'll be glad you did.

News from

Woodstock School

From the desk of the principal:

Nearly 30 parents and teachers turned out last Tuesday evening to hear Mrs. Gaudreau discuss Kindergarten programs and Mr. Walton outline the Children are People program that will be used extensively in SAD #44 this year.

It appears the addition of paid child care this year is making it easier for parents to attend these monthly meetings. Jim Horowitz, WPTU president, and I are attempting to make each meeting as interesting as possible. During the course of the year various classroom teachers will outline their programs for the group and other speakers will be invited to talk about the many and varied programs offered in SAD #44. If you have a particular topic that you would like to see brought up, please feel free to give me a call at 865-2229. Our goal is to provide parents with as much information as possible on a wide range of topics. These meetings begin at 6:30 p.m. and are over before 8 p.m.

The Nov. 1 agenda will contain a 1st-grade presentation by Mrs. Gaudreau and Mrs. Shumamura. Mrs. Shum will be returning to the classroom on Nov. 7. Mrs. Gaudreau has done an outstanding job substituting in Grade 1 the first 10 weeks of school. We hope to see you there.

Not a very cheerful-looking morning, unless one is looking for rain. We need the rain so shouldn't complain, but do like the sunshine better, and I would imagine the folks at Fryburg Fair would like it better, also. However, we will have to take the good with the bad, or vice versa, whichever way it comes.

We still have tomatoes in the garden, as well as cauliflower, broccoli and the late-starting shell beans. Also some zucchini that should be used up but I don't want to make any zucchini relish this year so don't know if it will get used or not. Russell's flowers are still in bloom, and are real pretty. Most of the glads are going by, but the hedge roses he planted this year are still beautiful. They blossomed full once and then started over again after a short period and have been lovely. The marigolds have outdone themselves this year with blossoms and are real pretty. We are so glad so far that the frost hasn't taken them away from us.

Freezing and canning go on when there is something ready to be taken care of. Canned 14 pints of tomatoes the other day and have more to can in a day or so. More cauliflower and broccoli ready to be taken care of anytime, so always something to keep me out of mischief. We have frozen some squash lately but have more to do if we can find room to put it.

Last Friday forenoon was a busy time for me as I had an appointment with a chiropractor to treat my back, then had another appointment to keep and then went to get groceries for the week. Got home to find Russell getting lunch ready as it was getting lunch time.

Saturday, Russell and I went to Paris Grange for the ladies day meeting. Ladies filled the chairs and the gents put on the program. Several who were expected didn't show up so made it a bad situation for the ladies trying to get the officers filled and the program together. However, not too bad a time.

Peggy had gone with her daughter, Myrna and husband Bernard White, of Auburn. They were going to his father's wedding and having their wedding vows renewed also. Peggy said they had a good time for all who were there.

Got my suitcase packed on Sunday morning ready to go to Lewiston again for the crocheting class on Monday. I am enjoying helping others learn the basics of crocheting. I taught myself and have picked up so much as I have gone along, and if I can help anyone enjoy it as I do I am glad. It can be fun. Wynona, Michael, Courtney and Karriann went to Fryburg Fair and came to get me on their way home. Guess they had a good fun day at the fair but were tired and ready to slow down come evening.

Monday morning, Wynona took Courtney to school, and when it was time we went for the crocheting class. Not all the girls were there, but four of them were, and we had a good class. When Cori got out of school in the afternoon, Wynona brought me home and Karriann came to spend a couple of days with me. We went to the Kindergarten classes we are reading Curious George.

to Grange in the evening and though Karriann was some tired, she was a good girl and enjoyed seeing her uncle Joe dress up and being a lady speaking a funny piece. He is real good at that and everyone enjoyed it, I guess, by the laughs during the speaking of the wedding story he told. It didn't take Karriann long to go to sleep when we got home and had her in bed.

Tuesday morning, I started canning some tomatoes and Russell helped. When that was done I made a double batch of zucchini carrot bread or cake. We use it as cake, as it is sweet and as good as any cake can be. After lunch, Karriann and I were resting as well as Russell when Wendall came in to get some tomatoes I had for him. We have given him quite a lot from the garden this year and guess he appreciates it, as he comes to get it when we tell him we have it for him. It will help them this winter as well as it does us.

Wednesday was my day to go see Dr. Jealous for my back and other troubles. Had had a call from a friend that she might come to visit me Wednesday so didn't make any extra stops on the way home. Had a couple that had to be made, but no others. Helen Hiedenhelm, of Poland, had never been up to visit before and I was so glad to see her. She has driven me to the doctor's at times when I have been at Wynona's and had no other way to get there. She is a very nice lady and I enjoyed her visit and hope she comes again.

Forgot to tell you that Peggy and Russell attended Pomona Grange at the Franklin Grange Hall in Bryant Pond on Tuesday. Russell said they had a good attendance and a good time.

West Paris Grange Ladies got second place ribbon and a Judges Award for their exhibit. The men got third place ribbons. Not bad for a small Grange. I'm sure they were all proud of the accomplishments.

Discussion series will focus on stepparenting

The potential rewards and challenges of stepparenting will be the focus of a series of discussion group sessions beginning today (Wednesday), at Oxford Hills High School, 7:30 p.m., with following sessions on Oct. 19, 26 and Nov. 2, 9. The program is sponsored by the University of Maine Cooperative Extension Service and Oxford Hills Adult Education. Extension agent Wendy Legg Pollack will lead the workshops.

Strengthening Stepfamilies is a new program designed to help stepfamilies begin building solid relationships. Although often confusing and frustrating, stepfamily living also offers tremendous potential for a rich family life.

Through discussions, readings and activities, participants will better understand the problems and opportunities unique to stepfamily living. They will also learn skills that will serve to strengthen their stepfamily.

Among the topics to be discussed: the myths of instant love; the difficulties children face in sharing a parent and acquiring a new stepparent and stepiblings; how to recognize and overcome unrealistic expectations about new stepfamily relationships; dealing with a non-residential parent; the discipline dilemma; starting out—handling finances, deciding where to live; building a solid couple relationship; the question of an "ours" baby; the unmentionables—past relationships; stepfamily sexuality.

A valuable feature of the discussion is the support participants receive from each other.

The program is open to the public, free of charge. Pre-registration is required. For more information or to pre-register, contact the Extension office, at 743-4323, or Adult Ed., at 743-4842.

and Mrs. Victor Havenen went shopping in Conway, N.H., Sunday.

Tuesday the Macks attended the Fryburg Fair with Mr. and Mrs. Elias McKee.

Thanks for the news, Mary. Always glad to get news and announcements to put in the paper. Wish more would call some news in to me.

They say tomorrow is supposed to be a better day, so folks can enjoy the fair more as well as anything else planned. Take care and have a good week ahead and watch out for the goblins who are getting ready for Halloween.

Tuesday, Oct. 4, I had to go to Berry Hill Orchards, at Livermore Falls, for bags to put apples in. I asked Sylvia Benson to go along for the ride. We went up through Canton and Jay. Coming home we went into Auburn, had dinner at the Jade Restaurant, and then came home through Mechanic Falls and Norway. Both ways we were viewing a kaleidoscope of reds, yellows, oranges, browns and greens. In some places we could look beyond to the seemingly blue of the mountains topped by the blue skies, with sometimes a white cloud drifting along. In some areas the trees were almost touching across the road, forming a colored canopy over the road. In other areas the leaves had fallen, making one suspect the trees were in a hurry to undress for their long winter's nap.

While we were outdoors Sunday we saw a large bird soaring overhead going in a huge circle. At first we thought it might be a hawk, but it finally flew low enough so we could see it was a full-crown bald eagle. It looked so majestic as it hovered around, probably searching for its meal.

Sunday was another busy day at the Gibson's Orchards. My sister and husband, Don and Iva Holden, of Norway, and brother, John Allen, with Bill Walker, of Market Square Nursing Home, came. John had not come before, so I had just made apple pies and told him that I figured he smelled me making them the day before. He said that was the case, the smell traveled right down to Norway.

Tuesday I had made a trip up to Louise Loring's, in Gilead, and we had gone to Buck's before Sylvia and I went to Livermore Falls. Going to Gilead and going to Bethel this road was a panorama of colors.

Wednesday had to make a quick trip to South Paris to deliver papers, and Thursday Frankie and I had to see his doctor, Richard Sullivan, in Portland. We stopped at Market Square Nursing Home, for some reason the colors were much more subdued the nearer we got to Portland.

Bobby Benson, of Boston, visited his grandmother, Sylvia Benson, the weekend of Sept. 30. Friday night, Sylvia's niece, Kim Small, of Hebron, and nurse friend, of Fairfield, brought their sleeping bags and spent the night. The next morning the two girls were meeting friends to hike on the Appalachian Trail.

Saturday Bobby took his grandmother to the Chicken Coop, in Mexico, and Sunday Bobby visited his parents, Frank Jr. and Carol, and brother, Chris, of Augusta, his aunt, Sharon, and Davis Kimball, of Waterford, and his aunt, Sylvia Gardner, and friend, Roger Murphy, and Roger's mother, Helen, all of Sabattus, to dinner at Sylvia Benson's. Bobby also did almost all the preparing of the dinner.

Some of the ones from the road going to Fryeburg Fair Oct. 2 were Charlie Masen and daughter Carol; Dick, Sue, Kristy, Dusty and Sam Angevine; Doug and Terry Smith; and Frankie and Teresa Gibson.

Sue Angevine and daughter Sheri, and others, are attending a revelation non-denominational seminar at the Seventh Day Adventist Church at Andrew's Corner.

Debbie Seames celebrated her birthday Sunday at her parents, Mr. and Mrs.

HOW TO SET UP A MODEM

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program will sponsor a seminar on the use of a modem to send text and graphics over telephone lines from one computer to another.

Leslie Gamble will demonstrate the proper setup, communications parameters and start-up techniques using an Apple II and a Macintosh on Tuesday, Oct. 18, 7-9 p.m., at Telstar Regional High School. To enroll, call the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education office, at 824-2780.

Bob Stearns, with an old fashioned boiled dinner, Debbie's daughter, Dawn, made and decorated the cake. Debbie's uncle, Frank Murphy, and Sid, came, but grandparents Pat and Ersel Murphy were not able to attend as Ersel's legs are bothering her too much.

Stephen Bishop spent Tuesday night with grandparents Charles and Ruth Mason.

Larry, Sally and Zack Smith, of East Conway, N.H., visited his folks, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Smith. Zack stayed with his grandparents while his parents went to Larry's 20th reunion from Gould held at Sudbury Inn.

Dr. Leonard and Becky Shaw went to Samoset Resort, Rockport for an optometrist conference the weekend of Sept. 30. Jon and Jen visited their aunt, Martha Bangs, and family, in Dresden.

Sept. 25 the Kenniston family had a potluck dinner at Shaws' to welcome back their parents, Bob and Ginny Kenniston, who left in June and returned Sept. 23. Those attending were Peter and Stacey Kenniston and four-month-old daughter; Martha, Deanne, Jonathan and Glenn M. Bangs; and David, Jody, Heath and Heather Kenniston. Becky's twin is in California so couldn't make it.

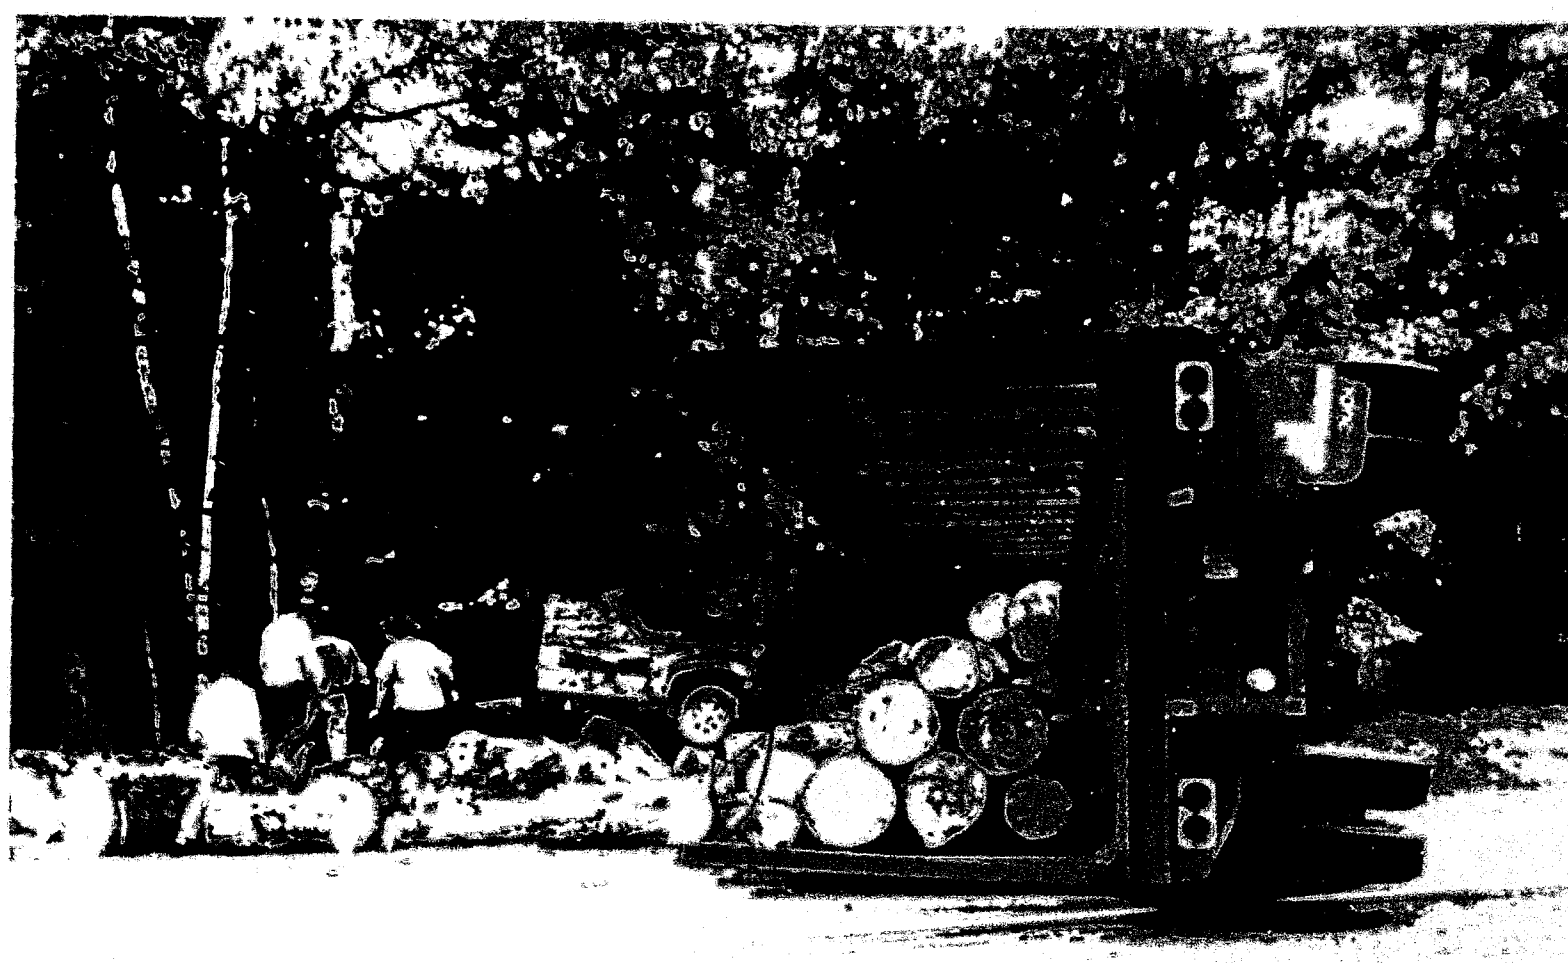

Sept. 22, Evelyn Hilborn and Frances Farnum drove to Norway and South Paris for business, shopping and lunch at Hartley's. Sept. 24, Frances Farnum drove Evelyn Hilborn, Bertha Flanders, of Locke Mills, and Louie Coffin, of West Paris, on a scenic tour to Eustis, Chain of Ponds and back road to Dixfield. They had lunch at a picnic area at Cathedral Pines. The colors in places were lovely, but not as spectacular as in previous years.

Sept. 25, Evelyn drove Frances Farnum and Louie Coffin to Norway for lunch and then back home on a scenic drive through Evans Notch. The lack of colors was disappointing.

Sept. 18, Joe and Gerry Shumamura left Bethel for a visit with Joe's family, in Hamamatsu, Japan. Their eight-year-old grandson, Justin, from Lewiston, went with them. While in Hamamatsu they visited Joe's mother, brother and family and younger sister and family.

Joe's 85-year-old, spy little mother called Joe and Gerry at 5:30 each morning to go with her for her morning walk, 1 1/2 miles, run or shine. Memorial services were held for Joe's dad and other deceased members of the Shumamura family. They also spent several days in Tokyo-Yokohama areas visiting another sister and family and several cousins. Prices in Japan are very high, even in the little shops away from the tourists. Everyone had a good trip, enjoying meeting family and old friends.

Whenever possible, existing bus routes are used to provide these services, but at times medical appointments need to be made outside of the area or at a time other than scheduled runs. To provide for these situations, WMTS has a volunteer driver program.

PULP TRUCK ROLLOVER—Four people from Vermont were injured on Route 2 in Gilead Friday afternoon when a pulp truck tipped over while attempting to negotiate a turn—spilling its load of logs across the highway and into the path of a small pickup truck and two other tractor trailers. The driver and passenger of the pickup truck and the driver and passenger of one of the tractor trailers received minor injuries in the accident and were treated and released at Androscoggin Valley Hospital in Berlin, N.H. The occupants of the pickup truck were transported to the hospital by ambulances attached to Special Forces units operating in the Bog Brook training area. The other injured parties were transported by Bethel Rescue. The Special Forces units also assisted with traffic control until the arrival of Maine State Police. The pickup truck was demolished and the undercarriage of the two tractor trailers extensively damaged by the logs. Traffic on Route 2 was diverted for an hour-and-a-half as a boom logger from P.H. Chadbourne cleared the logs from the roadway. The damaged vehicles were towed from the scene by Gaudreau's Repairs, of Bethel.

WMTS needs volunteer drivers in Bethel area

Western Maine Transportation is public transportation in the western Maine area of Franklin, Androscoggin and Oxford counties.

In addition to being public transportation, WMTS is contracted to transport various clients of the Department of Human Services and the Department of Mental Health and Retardation and is also the designated provider of transportation to medical appointments for Medicaid recipients in the tri-county area.

Whenever possible, existing bus routes are used to provide these services, but at times medical appointments need to be made outside of the area or at a time other than scheduled runs. To provide for these situations, WMTS has a volunteer driver program.

NEWS FROM Andover Elementary School

Classroom news: Kindergarten students will be participating in a read-at-home-and-school program. As parents, you are encouraged to listen to your child re-read or retell the stories they bring home.

Grade 1 was visited by Mrs. Belanger and Mrs. Burns, from the Rumford Community Hospital, who presented a program called "Smiley visits the hospital." This program teaches children about the hospital and what it would be like to stay overnight. Each child had their blood pressure taken and listened to their own heartbeat. They also received a cap and a face mask.

The 2nd-graders have been working on patterns in Math for the past few weeks as part of the Math Their Way program. Pattern is the underlying theme of mathematics. The skill of recognizing and using patterns is a valuable problem-solving tool for a child to learn to use, for it can have a great effect on the development of a child's mathematical understanding. It's a learning experience and fun to talk with your child about patterns—finding them at home in different things or while you're riding in the car. It's amazing what you'll find. Congratulations to Naomi Sanford, Christy Richardson, Samantha Mayberry, Dusty Davis, Julie Burgi and Casey Brown for all scoring 100 on their Spelling test.

In 4th grade, Sarah Richardson and Lara Fyberg brought pumpkins to class. In 5th grade, Christy Shelton, Angie Sente, Ben Bartlett, Peter Miserochci and Augusta Yates scored well on the English tests. On the Social Studies test, Heidi Davis, Angie Sente, Robert Cuff, and Peter Miserochci were the top scorers. In Reading, it was Peter Miserochci, Brian Spaulding, Ben Bartlett, Angie Sente and Sarah Cohen who scored at the top.

Fact: If you don't read to your children, they might never read.

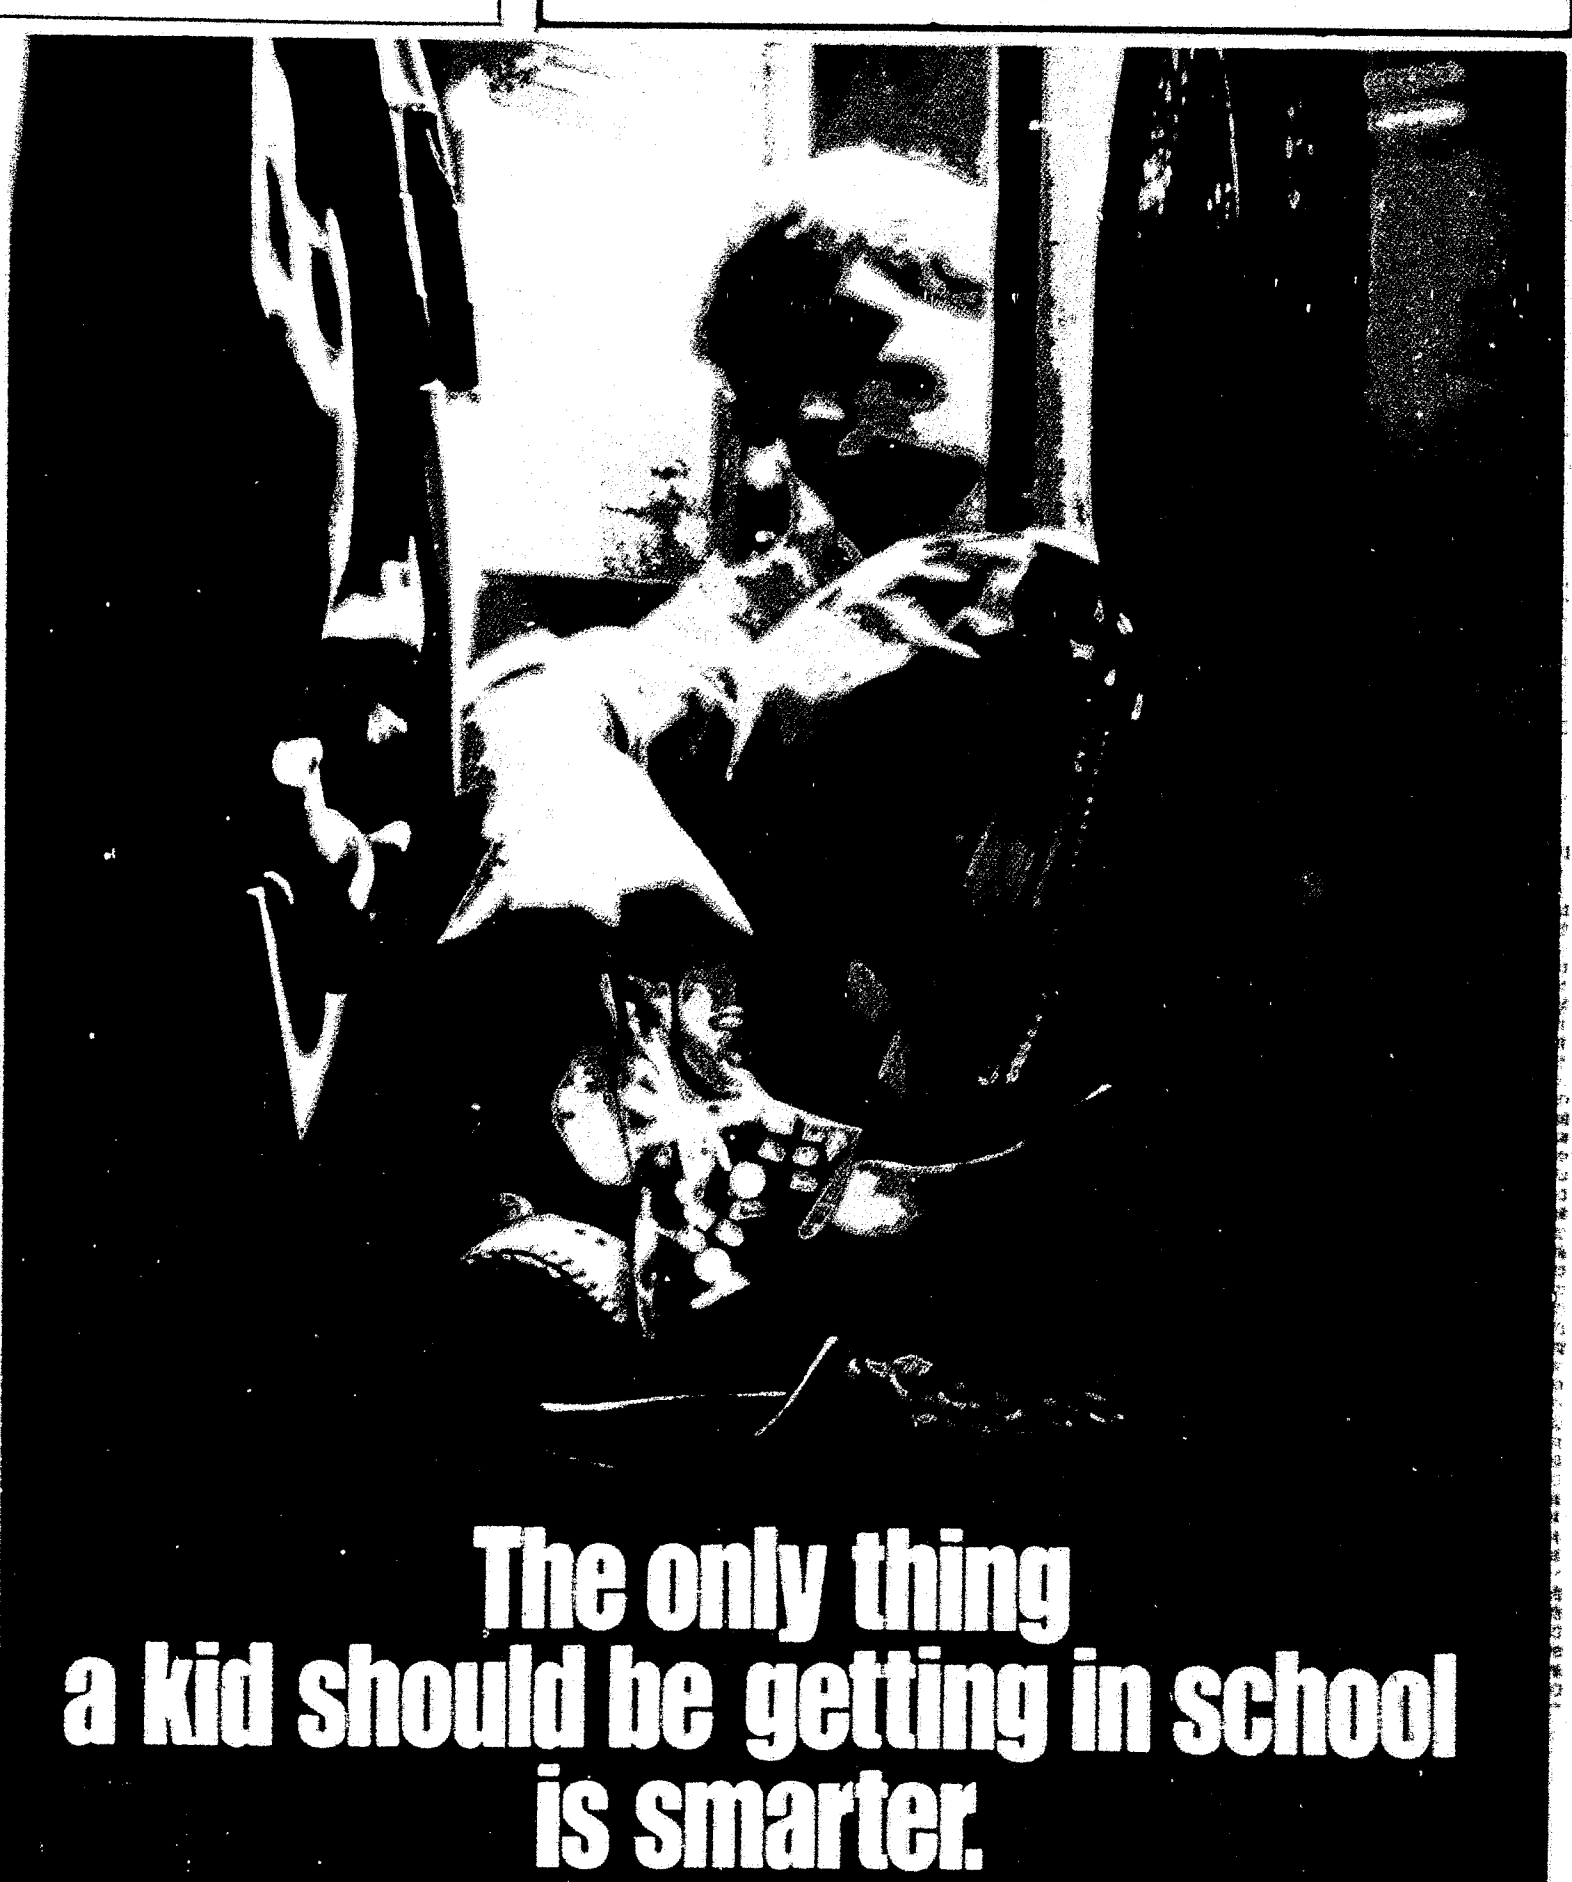

The expenses will be divided between the Post and the Auxiliary.

The only thing a kid should be getting in school is smarter.
Unfortunately, what too many of them are getting instead is drugs. With your help, it doesn't have to be this way.
There is a program called "Schools Without Drugs: The Challenge" that can help you deal with the drug problem in your community or school.
Find out about it. The smarter you are about what works against drugs, the better chance our kids will understand how dumb it is to take them.

Two women from the Maine State Aquarium came to our school for the 5th Grade. They told us about many kinds of fishes. Everything from a lamprey to a shark. It was great. Thanks to the Marine Association and Mrs. Wheeler. The new playground is in and being used happily. On Tuesday we got to have a recess alone with just one other class so it wouldn't be mobbed. Thanks to all of the people who helped build it.

The first of the half-Wednesdays was last week and we got out at 12. Robin Mello came to the 5th Grade last week. She is a storyteller brought to us by the Mahoosuc Arts Council. She will be working with us during October. She explained some techniques about writing. She had us remember about when we were in Kindergarten. Then we shared our experiences. There were funny, sad and happy memories. Our homework was to ask our parents to tell us two memories about when they were young. We wrote them down and pass them in on Oct. 21.

This morning, through winnowed trees, the sun is clear and it looks like the valley in colors of red, yellow and gold. The killer morn has come, for October is a mad doctor's trees, its victim October is the chemist of months. It dilutes and chokes and then it's all over for the trees. October uses colors to time the night air, then goes to work stealing chlorophyll from the leaves. That natural green pigment which is so welcome in spring.

September objects, as we do, say, "There are some things months were not meant to tamper with."

"But I must go on," shouts October. The beech trees become domes of unpollished copper. The ash trees are exhausted stained. Red, yellow and brown are the oaks and maples. Color in the woods, on the river by the lakes and ponds will enjoy for days. All are blending, clashing, racing the breezes and ripples, taking up the sunlight and glowing.

We say, "It's beautiful." Do we tell the truth?

Whether has killed the summer. Yes, November will come to trample the bodies of dead leaves and bear summer away. The mad doctor of chemistry has killed a season, made us a year older, but has done it so artistically that we don't mind. We welcome the change.

On Wednesday the air was clear and the morning uninvigorating as I left the house to meet my cousin, Little Brooks, and go to her farm with her for the day. It was Christmas in September for our group of teachers, one of whom was ill and couldn't attend, which made a wave of sadness among us. She was really missed and we hope she will be up and well soon. The teachers attending were: Doris Slattery, Doris Hayes, Little Brooks, Louie Coffin, Avis Stillham, Colista Morgan and three guests: Verna Libbey, Lenora Waterhouse and Bertha Betts. Lettie and I prepared a baked dinner and we all gathered around the large family table that I remembered so well, when I was a child. After that we went to the cozy living room for the tree and an exchange of gifts, chatted, laughed and had a jolly time. It was fun to be together again, for Christmas in September had as much thought as in December for we had spent many a Christmas in this way. Avis will be leaving us to go to Florida very soon.

I had been more at ease this week for my yellow jacket bees had dwindled to one or two a day. But when I came home on Saturday from the Delta Kappa Kappa

West Bethel

By CONSTANCE BROADBENT

Dear Jane H.:
It was good to hear from you and to know that you receive The Citizen in Farmington. It sounds as if you are really involved with activities this year. I can't believe that you're a junior already! Tempus fugit for sure!

While you've been sharpening your leadership skills and focusing on your "Home Ec Expo," the folks in West Bethel have been exercising their own version of "home economics." They've been picking apples, making jams and jellies, "putting by" their harvests and splitting wood for winter.

The air has changed in the past few days. It smells like fall. Puffs of smoke from village chimneys tell us to stash away our T-shirts and tank tops, while frosty mornings find us dragging in the dahlias to store them till spring. Amid all this bustle, many of us have taken time to smell the french fries. (Usually it's roses, I know, but last week was Fryeburg Fair Week!)

Our friends, Paul and Joan O'Donnell, of Wilton, Conn., and Paul and Dot Curtis, of Waltham, Mass., coordinated their recent visit with us so that we could "do the fair." It was the second trip to Fryeburg for the O'Donnells and the first for the Curtis. We all had a great time, enjoying the displays and the farm animals and the fruits of someone else's labor. Lesson for the day: an ox is a grown-up steer; a steer is a gelded bovine boy! Trust me. That's important information, especially for a cow!

The Corliss family (of Mountain View Store) made Monday their Fair Day. They closed the store and spent a wonderful day at the fairgrounds. It was the second annual visit to Fryeburg, and they, too, enjoyed the activities in the barns and along the midway.

On Wednesday, Warren followed up his Fryeburg excursion with a quick one-day trip to Gloucester, Mass., and back. He mixed business with pleasure, stopping long enough to see his brother and his grandfather (the Howard Corliss who stayed with us a few weeks ago) before heading back to his turn at the cash register.

So much for short hops. Did you know that the Hostermans just completed an auto tour of the Midwest? They recently returned from a trek that took them halfway across the country. The first leg of the journey brought them 950 miles to Springfield, Ohio, so that Dick could attend his 50th high school reunion. He and Jane stayed with brother Jack Hosterman and wife Jayne as they got reacquainted with Springfield. The class reunion was a rousing success, according to Dick, as a crowd of about 250 gathered to exchange pleasant memories and pictures of grandchildren.

From Springfield, the Hostermans motored west another 950 miles to Redwood Falls, Minn., in search of Jane's mother's birthplace. They found the house, but no descendants. So they turned north, pointing their genealogical compass toward Eau Claire, Wis., in pursuit of a Hosterman great-grandfather's story. Since Eau Claire gave up no secrets either, they headed for Sault Ste. Marie, in upper Michigan, and the journey back east. The drive showed them a fall that was colorful, but "two dimensional," according to Jane. She says that the relatively flat landscape (in the Midwest especially) allows a view of only the immediate foliage; there is no sense of the exciting soaring panorama that we get from our mountains.

By the way, Jane thought that you'd like to know that (a) Minnesota's earth is very, very black, and (b) 85 percent of the world's nickel is mined in Sudbury, Ontario. Tuck that away in your trivia file for future reference.

While the Hostermans toured the far-off places, other West Bethelites covered shorter distances. Last Wednesday, the men of the West Parish Congregational Church in Bethel hosted an early breakfast meeting. Walter Grover, Shirley Gilbert, Don Vautour and Rev. Norman Rust represented West Bethel Union Church at a gathering of about 15 men from area churches. They enjoyed early morning eggs and ecumenical conversation. Your grandfather, Selectman Arthur Gilbert, had to bypass that meeting in order to head for Augusta with other local officials to attend the Maine Municipal Association convention that ran from Wednesday to Friday.

On Thursday, West Bethel Union Church Aid members Frances Bennett, Ruth Gilbert, Juanita Haines, Barbara Mahler, Clara Rolfe and Ruby Rolfe were guests of the Ladies' Guild of the Methodist Church for tea and talk. They joined other women of local churches who gathered to hear Kenneth Carstenees discuss apartheid and the conditions in South Africa. Mr. Carstenees is executive director of the U.S. Committee of International Defense and Aid Fund for Southern Africa. After an enlightening address, the ladies were treated to "tea and crumpets."

That's the news for now, Jane. Thanks again for the note. I'm off to Portland in search of a sewing machine. I haven't owned one since before the introduction of zig-zag stitches and shortly after the demise of the treadle! Wish me luck. I really need drapes!

See you soon
Love, C.B.

Tri-Town Rescue

Game Warden Don Gray will speak at the next search and rescue meeting, Thursday night, Oct. 13, at 7 p.m., at the Tri-Town Rescue barn at Trap Corner. Anyone interested in how the local search and rescue team interacts with the game warden is invited to attend. Mr. Gray will also show a movie on hypothermia.

The auxiliary has planned a public baked bean and casserole supper Saturday, Oct. 22, from 5:30 to 7 p.m., at the Trap Corner barn. The proceeds will go to the ambulance replacement fund.

Attendees who are EOA-trained should note the change in recertification night. It will be Monday, Oct. 17, at 6 p.m., at Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway. This will be worth C.E.U. credits.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

A wide range of items were displayed and discussed at the Bethel Historical Society's annual "What's It?" monthly meeting held last Thursday, Oct. 6, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. Snowshoes for horses and a wire mechanism for cleaning lamp chimneys were among the most interesting and ingenious "What's Its" brought to the meeting. Several items remained a mystery, since no one could figure their use.

Following the "What's It?" portion of the meeting, Barbara Herrick Brown provided a historic survey of Bethel's Clark Street, whose origins go back to the 1880s. Mrs. Brown described the history of each house site, traced the families associated with the street and related those present with stories of life there.

Clark Street was home to Bethel's last surviving Civil War soldier, Collins Morgan (1842-1939), who was a member of the famous 20th Maine Regiment. It also has been a street of remarkable stability—several of its residents having lived there for 50 years. One question emerged from the meeting without an answer: the origin of the street's name. Mrs. Brown had no answer and no one attending volunteered with any information. If readers of this column have ideas, please share them with Mrs. Brown (824-2581) or with the Society (824-2600).

Prior to the program, President Marvin O'Connell announced that the next meeting would be Nov. 3 and would feature D. Edwin Churchill, head curator of the Maine State Museum, who will speak on "Painted Furniture." Anyone with painted furniture that is transportable was urged to bring it to that meeting. The "Artifact of the Month" was announced as a cane, engraved with the following: "Made from oak at the Old North Bridge, Concord, Massachusetts, 1776—Josiah Dutton, 1873." Josiah Dutton was a Bethel housebuilder who lived at the corner of the present Mason and Chapman streets. Chapman Street was once known as Dutton Street, named for Josiah Dutton. This cane is the gift of William G. Hastings, of Shelburne, N.H.

Jane Hesterman announced that an adult education course on genealogy would be given at the Dr. Moses Mason House, beginning Oct. 11, and that a one-night session on presidential elections, 1840 to the present, would be given by Society Director Stanley E. Howe, on Oct. 12. Anyone interested was urged to attend. Further information is available from SAD #44 Adult and Community Education, at 824-2580.

Sally Rollinson announced that three seminars on New England antiques would be offered at Hammons House, Nov. 11, 12. Those wishing further information were urged to notify her, at 824-3170 soon, as space will be limited. Refreshments of the traditional order and donuts followed the program.

The Kindergarten and Grade 1 visited Colonial Apple Orchard on Oct. 6. They saw how cider was pressed, how apples and apple products are packaged and had an opportunity to pick an apple.

On Wednesday, Oct. 12, the 1st-graders will be discovering Christopher Columbus. They will be making model boats, using styrofoam meat trays. Mrs. Loper would appreciate anyone who would be willing to save the meat trays for us. She and other teachers can use them for many different art projects. They could be dropped off at school anytime during the day, or give us a call and we'll make arrangements to get them.

Fire Prevention Week is Oct. 10-14. The 1st-graders will be forming a fire drill plan to be used at home, making firemen's hats and reading an exciting story, "Firehouse." More news next week about other activities for Fire Prevention Week!

Mrs. Perham's Grade 2 is busy with exciting activities. Candace Campbell was last week's "Artist of the Week," and has her art work on display for the whole school to see. Justin Bonney is this week's "Student of the Week." His great-grandfather was his very special guest. Mr. Hammond is noted for his wood carving and brought in several pieces to show the class. He also delighted the 2nd-graders by giving them each a decorated rock duck that he had made. The children were proudly showing them to all of us and they were beautiful.

Mr. Burke's 3rd-graders are working hard and having fun at the same time. If the children look up to "watch the clock," they find the clock watching them. Their clock has mysteriously acquired lips, eyes, mustache and hair! It does have a friendly look. The children are working on the "R" controlled sounds in reading. The 3rd-graders are calling this skill "the bossy R." In their CAP (Children are People) program they are making collages and self-portraits. They are learning about how children are alike and how they are different.

Mr. Littlefield's 4th-graders are gaining rapidly on mastering their addition and subtraction facts and hope to earn their pizza party by next week. They have started a new unit in science, "Land and Water." This study includes the effects of water on the land.

My 5th-graders are really interested in current events. Along with the 6th-grade,

CHRISTIAN WOMEN PLAN LUNCHEON

The Christian Women United monthly luncheon will be held at the Country Way Restaurant, in South Paris, Tuesday, Oct. 18, at 12:30 p.m. The speaker, Margaret Crockett, will also provide the music. Free child care is available at the Episcopal Church, 11:30-3. For reservations call 743-5155, -2086 or -8698 by Friday, Oct. 14.

We watched the launch of the space shuttle Discovery. Some are bringing in articles on the race for the World Series. Olympic news, and all are planning to cast a vote for whom they think will make the best president. Our next project is to create a current events bulletin board for news that they want to share with each other.

Mr. Koch's 6th-graders are finishing up their study of the environment. They have been working on all the things that families can do and are doing to recycle our resources and learning how that protects our environment. In math they have been working on Roman numerals and are continuing to work on problem solving.

The 5th and 6th-graders are practicing their skills and their teamwork with an occasional kickball game, with the two classes competing. We are quite evenly matched, and, although the 6th-grade won the most recent game, the 5th-grade played a good game and will be ready for a rematch soon.

Our home/school counselor, Mr. Grigsby, has started meeting with small groups on a weekly basis. Grades 1-2 discuss and do activities around the theme, "Loving myself"; Grades 3 and 4, "Getting along with others"; Grades 5 and 6, "Dealing with feelings." These groups will meet once a week for eight weeks. At that time different students will have a chance to work with Mr. Grigsby on different topics.

Our school is also still saving the Campbell Soup labels and we appreciate anyone who will save them for us. Many labels besides the soup can count. If you'd like a list of just what does count, contact the school and I'll be glad to see that you get one.

MALOY-HASTINGS WEDDING

Catherine Maloy, daughter of Thomas and Barbara Maloy, of Machasport, and Jeffrey Hastings, son of Robert and Betty Hastings, of East Bethel, were united in marriage on Saturday, June 25, in the First Congregational Church in Machasport. Mark W. Bolles, minister of the church, performed the double-ring ceremony before a congregation of more than 200. Carolyn W. Bolles, organist, played traditional wedding music. The bride was escorted by her father.

Brenda Maloy was her sister's maid of honor. Serving as bridesmaids were Janet Johnson, cousin of the bride, Joan Barber, Celeste Baskway and Grace Hanscom.

Tony Butters, uncle of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Eric and Jay Hastings, brothers of the groom, Don McKinnon and Rick Helfin.

"The Wedding Song," a haunting melody, was composed by the bridegroom; a second selection, "My Only Love," by Turner, were accompanied by the guitar and sung by Kristi Hancock and Holly Brown, cousins of the bridegroom.

An outdoor reception followed at the childhood home of the bride. A colorful array of tables dotted the lawn, with a canopy for those wishing shelter from sun and rain. Standing beneath an ornamental garden trellis, Cathy and Jeff received their guests.

After the bride and bridegroom shared and savored their lovely tiered cake, Mrs. Evelyn Carver presented the bride's cake and expertly served the wedding cake to the guests.

The bride is a graduate of Washington Academy in East Machas and the University of Maine in Orono. She is a medical technologist at Eastern Maine Medical Center, Bangor.

The groom is a graduate of Telstar High School and has a bachelor's degree in music from the University of Maine in Orono. He is currently completing an electrical program at Eastern Maine Vocational Technical Institute and is employed by Gordon Electric in Carmel. The couple reside in Carmel.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

"Ma, what are those lights for? Why are those doors open?" the little boy on the plane was full of questions. "Mom, are the wheels still down? What are those lights for?" He just didn't quit. "Ma, are we over the water?" "Did he really want answers or just reassurance during what was an exciting, maybe even scary, experience?"

Just before I got on the plane, my mother's comments about this and that increased in frequency. And for the first half hour after she picked me up, my wife's and my recital of what we had done or thought since last we saw each other seemed to flow almost non-stop. Were not these words carrying more than just information? Were they not also—even primarily—ways of relating, made more intense by the prospect of separation or the fact of reunion?

We talk not only to tell somebody something. We also talk to share our feelings, even to try out feelings and beliefs that we're not sure we feel or believe until we give them utterance. Indeed, often the greatest gift you can give to a friend who is going through a difficult time is just to listen as he or she sorts through feelings by talking them out.

We may basically be because of natural processes or God's creative acts, but we affect HOW we are with each other by what we say. S.I. Hayakawa, the great linguist scholar and later a U.S. senator, was fond of pointing out that "She's the most beautiful girl in the world" is not a statement of fact; it is a poem. And how often is "I love you" a fact, and how often an outburst of relief, joy, even anger?

"The Lord is my Shepherd..." has for nearly 30 centuries given reassurance that we are cared for by a loving and powerful God. And a benediction such as

KOLBE-DUDDY WEDDING

Former Bangor native Dorothy Jean Duddy and Captain William Kolbe, of New York, were wed in a quiet ceremony in Falmouth-Foreside Sept. 24.

The ceremony was performed by the bride's nephew, Terry Duddy, a Portland attorney. Maid of Honor was Christina Regina Duddy, an attorney in Boston, Mass. Miss Duddy is a niece of the bride. Best Man was Michael Duddy, of Portland, nephew of the bride. Ring bearer was the bride's great nephew, Mathew Duddy, son of Terry and Kathleen Duddy of Falmouth-Foreside. A champagne reception followed the wedding.

The bride has been affiliated with the United States Immigration and Naturalization Service, New England Division. She is currently working as a free-lance photographer and photojournalist.

Capt. Kolbe was formerly with the United States Lines, employed as a captain of their cargo and passenger ships crossing the North Atlantic. He is currently employed by the United States Department of Transportation, Maritime Administration, as a marine surveyor in New York City.

After a brief coastal tour, the couple will be at their summer place "Sunny Hours" on Hutchinson Pond, in Albany. They will return to New York in late October, where they will reside at 15 Jodi Lane, New York City, N.Y.

"The Lord bless you and keep you and give you peace," continues to bestow upon us a sense of wellbeing that would not be there if the service ended without it.

"In the beginning was the word," John's gospel begins. And in the first chapter of Genesis, God said, "Let there be light," and there was light. By our words we too take part in creation. With our words we can curse or bless, tear down or build up, both ourselves and those who hear us. Let us speak, aware of word's power, but aware too of the love that surrounds us and would speak through us.

GOULD COACHING AT USM

Bethel native Georgia Gould, who recently completed an outstanding four-year career as a left wing for the USM Huskies, will now join her former coach as an assistant for the 1988 season.

Gould became the second leading scorer in USM history last season, recording her 30th career goal in the NCAA Northeast Regional Tournament. She was later selected as a Division III Regional All-American.

"Georgia was well known for her excellent work on the left wing," said coach Hodgdon. "She was a very dangerous scorer and had an excellent reverse stick hit. She knows what it takes to be a scoring forward, but at the same time, was a very unselfish player. She'll be tremendous help teaching her replacement and working with the forwards. I'm certainly looking forward to having her on the coaching staff."

Gould, who is finishing up her degree, will work with the offense and help with the conditioning program.

Low-income families to get more food stamps

Human Services Commissioner Rollin Ives said last week the recently enacted Hunger Prevention Act will increase food stamps $3 to $4 per person for Maine's low-income population this month.

"The new standards will increase the total value of food stamps issued in Maine by a quarter of a million each month," Commissioner Ives said. "The typical food stamp household of three people will receive about $3 more each month as a result of the new standards."

The legislation expands the child care deductions to allow for the expense of more than one child per family and leaves it up to each individual state as to whether households shall be required to file monthly reports in order to continue receiving food stamps. Maine presently requires households with earnings, or a recent history of earnings, to file reports monthly.

"The food stamp caseload has been dropping steadily for the past few years," Mr. Ives reported, "primarily due to Maine's favorable economic climate."

There are 37,000 households receiving stamps now; a year ago the figure was 39,600.

THIS IS SCHOOL LUNCH WEEK

The week of Oct. 9-15 has been proclaimed School Lunch Week in Maine by Governor John F. McKernan Jr.

A proclamation signed by the Governor encourages all Maine citizens to recognize the National School Lunch Program and the people behind it "for their dedication to serving nutritious and appealing meals so that all children are able to reach their fullest potential."

More than 103,000 National School Lunch Program meals are served daily to elementary and high school children in Maine during the school year.

The National School Lunch Program is now in its 42nd year.

IN THE SPOTLIGHT AGAIN—A camera crew from Channel 5, in Boston, is in town this week filming a feature on Bethel for its award-winning Chronicle program. The feature is expected to focus on the unique qualities of Bethel—a solid wood-based industry existing side-by-side with skiways and with a prep school. The crew was filming at the SAD #44 Board meeting Monday night, and Tuesday morning was filming at Gould Academy's morning assembly. Channel 5 did a documentary in the Bethel area two years ago, in which the economic difficulties of some families were portrayed—some felt unfairly.
